BELIEF GAINS GROUND GUN GIVEN POLICE IS BAKER DEATH PISTOL

Gloth Refuses to State What Has Increased His Confidence.

CAMPBELL INNOCENCE MAY YET BE PROVED

Lawyer Seeks Weapon's Inspection by Expert Strange to Case.

ALIBI CORROBORATED BY ANOTHER WITNESS

Barrere, Wanting Release, Told He Must Stay in Jail for While.

Strength was added late yesterday to the conviction of authorities that bullets taken from the body of Mary E. Baker were fired from the gun turned over to police by Herbert M. Campbell, who is in Arlington County Jail.

Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, who made the announcement, refused to state his reasons for the strengthening of this conviction, but asserted that he is not convinced as yet that Campbell is the slayer.

After an afternoon spent interviewing alibi witnesses in this city, Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, Mr. Gloth, Sheriff Howard B. Fields and Detective Sergt. Carlton Talley took the suspect from his cell and questioned him for a half an hour.

Alibi Scrutiny Today.

Authorities declined to reveal whether any important information had resulted from the conference and announced that further scrutiny of his alibi would be made today. Under questioning by Lieut. Kelly, Campbell said: "I don't want to leave this jail until the investigation regarding this gun is cleaned up." Mr. Gloth said that there was no likelihood that he would be released until then.

As Campbell left the interrogators, he announced to newspapermen, "I never felt better in my life." Earlier in the day his wife was permitted to visit him. She brought him food and delicacies.

Mr. Gloth would not divulge what had occurred in the afternoon which made him more certain of the identity of the gun. He said that he and Lieut. Kelly had talked with Thomas A. King, of 1349 Harvard street northwest, who corroborated part of Campbell's alibi.

Met at Scout Meeting.

Mr. King told the investigators that Campbell had met him about 7:30 on the night of the murder at a scout meeting in a church near Fourteenth street and Park road. Mr. King is certain of the night because it was the occasion of a scout review.

Mr. Gloth and Lieut. Kelly declined to say where they spent the remainder of the afternoon. Part of the time, it was said, was consumed in checking the story of Mrs. Ruth Callahan Campbell, wife of the suspect. She said she made a purchase at a Washington store before taking a bus to their home. She arrived at home at 6 o'clock, she said, and her husband was there.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police; Inspector William S. Shelby, Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth today will decide whether Washington or Arlington County authorities will send a man to Chicago to carry the Campbell gun to Maj. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert, for examination.

Arlington Man May Go.

If Washington police do not send a man to Goddard, Mr. Gloth intimated that he would send an Arlington County officer. Charles H. Smith, attorney for Campbell, insists that some mistake must have been made in the earlier identification. He has said that there is no precedent in the Virginia courts governing the admission of testimony of ballistics experts. Mr. Gloth points to a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in which ballistics testimony is ruled as admissible evidence.

Assault Made on Alibi.

While Mr. King corroborated Campbell's alibi for the night of the murder, Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth are concentrating their efforts in an attempt to shatter the story covering his activities from 5 o'clock to 7:30 o'clock, during which time they believe the girl was slain.

Campbell's step-son, Edwin Callahan, says he was home at 5:05 o'clock. Mrs. Campbell told authorities that he was at home from 6 o'clock on that night until after 7 o'clock. The woman with whom Campbell spent part of the afternoon of April 11 says he left her near Dupont circle after 5 o'clock. Campbell says he passed Seventeenth and B streets, where the Baker girl was last seen alive, at 5:30 o'clock. While with the woman, he admits, he parked his automobile near Sheridan Gate in the Arlington Na-

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Investigation of the Amtorg, which is a Russian trading company, may raise some important questions. Our Government has no diplomatic relations with Russia. But it is perfectly lawful for our nationals, at their own risk, to trade with Russia, or for her nationals to trade here.

Our law excludes from this country persons of certain beliefs and practices which we think are inimical to our Government and institutions. But it is not the practice to inquire very minutely into the beliefs of foreigners coming here temporarily for genuine mercantile purposes. Besides, we have held the opinion that trade and time would be the means of restoring Russia. It had been supposed that the agents of the Amtorg were not engaged in anything but trade. If an investigation shows that they are taking advantage of the hospitality we have granted them as merchants to participate in activities against our peace and order, our Government will take proper notice of that fact. Meantime it is proper to await proof before reaching final judgment. Our people are so thoroughly attached to their own system of self-government that we need not feel it is in imminent danger.

GIRL SECOND TO DIE IN TORCH-GUN CASE

Follows Father to Grave as Victim of Attacker, Who Set Auto Afire.

SISTER OUT OF DANGER

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., July 24.—Estelle Corbin, youngest daughter of Allie Corbin, deceased, succumbed yesterday in the Fauquier Hospital and was buried at Marshall, Va., today. Allie Corbin, and his two daughters, allegedly were shot and burned by Elwood Payne, colored, on June 28 in the upper end of Fauquier County. Mr. Corbin, 55, died July 6 from his wounds.

Payne, according to police, set fire to the automobile after shooting Corbin and his two daughters.

Isabella, the eldest daughter, is regarded as practically out of danger. Fauquier County will have jurisdiction in both cases involving the deaths of Mr. Corbin and his daughter, Estelle. The Negro later is said to have crossed the county line into Loudoun County, but the deaths of Allie Corbin and his daughter resulted from wounds and burns inflicted in Fauquier County.

In the event that a special term of court is held, Commonwealth Attorney C. W. Carter will prosecute Payne, who is still lodged in the county jail at Warrenton.

Payne at one time is said to have confessed to Sheriff W. S. Wolf, but later at the preliminary hearing repudiated his confession. Despite the Negro's denial, the sheriff and the commonwealth attorney are confident they have sufficient evidence against Payne to secure conviction. Payne has employed no counsel as yet.

NATS ROUTED, 10-4; TRAIL BY FIVE GAMES

Liska, Brown, Burke and Fischer Pounded Hard by White Sox.

LYONS TIGHT IN PINCHES

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Comiskey Park, Chicago, July 24.—The Chicago White Sox, battling for sixth place, looked more like pennant contenders than did the Nationals in the series opener here this afternoon as Bush's men hopped on the slants of four Washington pitchers for fifteen hits and ten runs, while Ted Lyons, in turning in his fifteenth victory of the season, held the Nats to but four tallies, despite the fact that the Johnsons were credited with thirteen safeties. As the league-leading Mackmen won in Cleveland, they extended their margin over the Nats to five games.

The Nats started with a small lead, saw the score tied and stepped out again, but they were finally passed in the sixth and from then on it was just a case of playing out the string. Adolph Liska started for the Nats, with Heinie Manush getting back in the line-up after a long lay-off. Liska was going fairly well when a drive from Jolley's bat hit him on the knee and sent him to the showers, with Bob Burke, Lloyd Brown and Carl Fischer twirling before the end came and with none proving effective.

Manush did his bit with the bat, getting three singles in four times up, but neither this effort nor that of Joe Judge, who got a triple, double and single, was good enough to make the game even close. Errors by Bluege and Spencer figured in the making of four Sox runs but, as the Sox won by six, the blame must be placed on the shoulders of the pitchers, who could not prevent the Chicagoans from bunching hits.

Judge's triple and Manush's single gave the Nationals a one-run lead in the first, with the Chisox knotting the count in the third on one-basers by Lyons and Reynolds and Jolley's double off Liska's knee which put the Nats' starting flinger out of business.

NAVAL TREATY SENT TO LORDS BY COMMONS

Lower British House Challenges Only One Article.

DIVISION, 190 TO 58, ON DISPUTED CLAUSE

Winston Churchill Gives Warning Pact Is Not Unopposed.

NEW AMERICAN SHIP TYPE IS DEPICTED

London Paper Holds Craft With 6-Inch Guns Are to Use Planes.

London, July 24 (A.P.).—The London naval treaty legislation was approved tonight by the House of Commons, passing the committee stage and third reading.

It now will go to the House of Lords.

The treaty bill was passed unchallenged except for a single clause. Its passage yesterday through the second reading had made its acceptance tonight a formality. The proceedings were very brief.

Winston Churchill, former conservative chancellor of the exchequer, made an important statement on his party's policy.

Hints at Opposition.

Referring to repeated rulings from the chair that the treaty itself could not be discussed with the bill, he said that the fact of the bill's passage must not be taken as an indication that opinion in the house was undivided where the actual treaty was concerned.

Except for clause 2, which abrogates article 4 of the Washington treaty, the treaty bill did not draw any specific protests in the house. Opposition parties were content for the moment to pass it along to the lords.

Commander Southby, conservative, said article 4 should be retained as a bulwark against unrestricted submarine warfare.

A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, replied that article 22 of the London treaty dealt with this.

Other Conservatives supported Commander Southby and strongly urged the retention of the penalties of article four.

Division on Clause.

Mr. Alexander said that clause two of the bill had been adopted on the advice of the admiralty.

The house then divided on this particular clause, which was carried by the government, 190 to 58.

London, July 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The alleged specifications of the proposed new American 6-inch-gun cruisers were given here today by the naval correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, who said that they have been known

HUSTON NAMES ABDICATION DAY AT CONFERENCE

Chairman of Republican Party Will Resign on August 7.

PROMISE FOLLOWS TALK WITH HOOVER

Parley at White House Is Preceded by Activity of Leaders.

STATEMENT ENDS FEVERISH BATTLE

Senator Fess, of Ohio, Slated to Take Over Position Early Next Month.

(Associated Press.)

Announcement was made on behalf of Claudius Huston as he left a conference late last night with President Hoover that he would submit his resignation as chairman of the Republican national committee to the executive committee next month.

The statement of Mr. Huston, which was given out through James Francis Burke, counsel of the national committee, read:

"I have just had a satisfactory conference with the President and we are in entire accord on our program. The President has approved my decision to call a meeting of the executive committee on August 7, at which time I intend to submit my resignation as chairman of the Republican national committee."

Announcement Ends Agitation.

The announcement brought a sudden and dramatic end to the whirl of agitation which has raged around Mr. Huston's head almost from the day he succeeded Dr. Hubert Work as Republican chairman, early in the Hoover administration.

Until he faced President Hoover last night, Mr. Huston kept party leaders in doubt as to his final decision. His call at the White House followed 24 hours of feverish activity in the high command of the Republican party.

Coming to Washington late last night, Mr. Huston went immediately into conference with Mr. Burke, who has acted as go-between in the negotiations between the President and his harassed party chairman. The White House visit was immediately arranged.

Fess Slated as Successor.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, is slated to take over the chairmanship of the national committee upon Mr. Huston's retirement. The executive committee which will be called to receive Mr. Huston's resignation next month has the power to fill the vacancy.

The agitation against Mr. Huston within the party became active after it was testified before the Senate lobby committee that he had solicited funds for the Tennessee River Improvement Association in behalf of the Muscle Shoals lobby and that he had used these funds in his brokerage account before turning them over to the association, of which he was president.

Rome, July 24 (A.P.).—On top of an earthquake that devastated a wide area in southern Italy, taking 2,000 lives, yesterday, northeastern Italy tonight suffered from the violence of a hurricane that killed 12 persons in the region of Treviso, near Venice.

The forces of nature seemed to be at war with the populace at both extremities of the kingdom.

The hurricane tore down many buildings at Barco di Sesegana, Vervest, Selva and Volpago, and it is feared more victims are buried under the ruins. Heavy damage was caused over a stretch of 25 miles.

The authorities in the north immediately concentrated at the place of the disaster, and organized first aid as had their colleagues in the south.

Hundreds Believed in Debris.

The task of coping with this new catastrophe made a definite tabulation of killed and injured in the south out of the question for the night. The ministries affected announced just before midnight there would be no recapitulation until tomorrow afternoon of the loss to life and property.

At the ministry of the interior the total of known dead thus stood for the night at 2,013.

Unofficial reports said that 3,025 bodies had already been found. Officials, while reticent, obviously believed that hundreds of bodies were still buried under the debris of homes in remoter communities.

King Leaves for South.

King Victor Emmanuel left tonight for the stricken south, where he was born, before learning of the disaster in the north. His movements were prudently veiled, but his special train is expected to arrive some time tomorrow in Avellino Province, where the worst conditions were reported.

Accompanied by Minister of Public Works Crollalanza, his majesty will make an automobile tour through the area. When the earthquake occurred, he was away at Santanna di Valdieri, in the north. He awaited the advice of his ministers as to the seriousness of the consequences, but early today manifested an urgent desire to visit the country.

As his majesty was born the Prince of Naples, he is assured of a really touching royal welcome tomorrow afternoon.

War Regime in Naples.

From King Victor Emmanuel and Premier Mussolini down, Italy today began mobilization on a wartime scale for the rescue work. Pope Pius XI, horrified at the extent of the catastrophe, prepared the forces of the church.

From the Bay of Naples and the Gulf of Salerno on the west almost to the Gulf of Manfredonia on the Adriatic a zone of devastated and stricken towns, hamlets and hour stretched like an open wound around the "ankle" of the Italian boot.

Naples, metropolis of the area, lying under the glowering menace of Mount Vesuvius, was under a war regime today. Soldiers guarded the streets, convoys of food and medical supplies rushed through the streets, buildings lay in ruins as though struck by

FILING OF GAS RATES PROMISED BY SEPT. 1

New Scale Will Cut Income of Company, Wood Tells Utilities Commission.

OLD SCHEDULE DROPPED

New gas rates will be filed with the Public Utilities Commission not later than September 1, George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., notified the commission yesterday.

No figures were given by Mr. Wood in his letter to the commission, but he said that the new rate schedule which would be proposed "at the outset will make for a substantial reduction in the gross and net income of this company."

The prospective rate schedule will take the place of that submitted by the company last month when it hoped that Congress would enact pending legislation authorizing the merger of the Washington and Georgetown Gas companies and loosening the restrictions on the financial structure of the companies.

Submitted for consideration by the commission "if and when" Congress enacted the merger legislation, the schedule proposed last month was declared void yesterday.

"We are presently making studies to enable us to make this new rate schedule very constructive and our studies will be completed in time to give the schedule of rates to you on or before September 1," Mr. Wood told the commission.

The purpose of the company to submit a new rate schedule was publicly disclosed by Mr. Wood at the

STREET CARS CARRY FEWER PASSENGERS

Both Lines, However, Have Revenue Increase as Fares Go Up.

USE OF TOKENS JUMPS

Street car lines suffered a loss in the number of revenue passengers carried Wednesday, the first day of the higher car fare, according to figures compiled by company officers yesterday.

Both lines, however, reported an increase in their daily revenues.

Capital Traction officers reported that the number of revenue passengers carried on their lines on Wednesday showed a decrease of 7 per cent as compared with the number carried on preceding Friday. Their revenues, however, showed an increase of 7 per cent over those of last Friday.

The comparison was made with Friday because Saturday and Sunday in the summer months are not normal traffic days, and neither were last Monday and Tuesday. On both days the Government departments closed a half day and a subsequent thundershower interfered with street car passenger traffic.

Use of tokens on the Capital Traction lines showed an increase of 5 per cent, jumping from 65 to 70 per cent. Company officers estimated that the 10 cents cash fare would mean an increase in the use of tokens to about 80 per cent of the total fares. They said yesterday that they expected an increasing use of tokens as soon as the car riders become fully aware that they can get

Charge Against Slain Radio Man Recanted

Detroit Police Commissioner, Under Fire by Newspaper, Admits He Has No Affidavit Linking Buckley With Racketeers.

Detroit, July 24 (A.P.).—The murder of Jerry Buckley, fiery radio orator, had far reaching effects today in the city where he minced no words in denouncing the underworld before the microphone.

In the burst of police activity which followed the killing of Buckley by three gunmen as he sat in a hotel lobby early yesterday, the centralized vice squad was swept out of existence and the precinct squads which were substituted for it were ordered to "smash up" every liquor and vice resort in the city.

A few hours after Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox had issued orders creating the squads and starting the raids, a hard blow was struck at the commissioner himself by a story in the Detroit News.

The News stated that Wilcox admitted that his statement last night that he possessed an affidavit in which a whisky racketeer accused Buckley of taking $4,000 from him, was false. The commissioner, the News said admitted that he has no such affidavit "as yet."

The paper published an interview with Wilcox in which the commissioner was asked, after he had repeated that he had the affidavit, to prove its existence by showing it to a judge of the circuit court.

"Well, it isn't signed—not yet," Wilcox was quoted as saying. The News added that Wilcox said that he would show the affidavit to James E. Chenot, county prosecutor. Chenot was quoted as stating that Wilcox had promised the affidavit but had not produced it.

The Wilcox stateent about the affidavit was the only open charge which has been made again Buckley, although police headquarters had announced today that detectives were looking for members of one of the city's river gangs in connection with the killing. Buckley's friends pointed out that the announcer had incurred the enmity of many gangsters through his attacks over the radio and recalled the numerous threatening letters which he would read to his listeners.

In abolishing the centralized vice squad and returning to precinct commanders the duty of suppressing gambling, bootlegging and other vice, Commissioner Wilcox abandoned a policy inaugurated by Mayor Charles Bowles. This policy had been one of the focal points of attack in the successful recall campaign, which ended Tuesday with the mayor's defeat by a majority of 30,000. Critics of his administration, including Buckley, had charged that open gambling existed in the city and that the centralized vice squad, which allowed the precinct officers to assume a hands-off policy, was partly responsible.

Several suspects were arrested by police during the day in connection with the Buckley killing, but no formal charges were made against any of them.

South Carolina Legislator Shot by Political Enemy

State Senator Is Felled by Buckshot as Feud Flares Anew.

Moncks Corner, S. C., July 24 (A. P.).—E. J. Dennis, State senator of Berkeley County, was shot down and probably fatally wounded on the street here today in the latest episode of this county's bloody history of gun fights, ambushes and assassinations of recent years.

The 54-year-old legislator, long a dominant figure in Berkeley's turbulent politics, was rushed to a Charleston hospital.

W. L. Thornley, 35-year-old Moncks Corner resident, charged with emptying a charge of buckshot into Dennis' head as the latter conversed with two friends in front of the postoffice, was taken to the State Penitentiary at Columbia.

Appears on Pages 4 and 5 Today shells, and flags everywhere flew at halfstaff.

From Naples almost as far as the Plain of Apulia, on the other side of the Apennines, at least 85 towns and villages lay desolate.

In the provincial centers and larger towns Fascist militiamen and all Fascist auxiliary organizations moved in swift disciplined order on their errand of relief. As the frightened populace grew more reassured, and the work of salvage lightened, bands were sent out to the surrounding country.

Health authorities, fearful of epidemics such as follow in the wake of great disasters, mobilized an army of doctors and pharmacists. Medicines and serums were collected at strategic points. Food supplies were massed in depots and distributed by the truck load. Water was rushed in tank trucks to communities whose drinking supplies had been cut off.

Country Doctor Hero.

After great difficulty the Italian army signal corps reestablished communication between the larger towns. Flying sanitary squads from Naples and elsewhere inoculated villagers and farmers with antitetanus serum.

The country doctor came once more into his own. At the village of Villanova, which was completely razed, old Dr. Jorizzo, only survivor of his whole family and himself dragged, badly battered, from the ruins of his home, worked until he nearly dropped, giving free aid to his fellow townsmen. The situation there was acute. The death list mounted from 400 to 500.

Throughout four devastated provinces, Avellino, Potenza, Foggia and Benevento, the homeless bivouacked tonight in the fields. The countryside seemed to be in the grip of war, an impression heightened by the constant passage of hurrying detachments of soldiers.

Planes Aid in Relief.

The burial of the dead in itself constituted a stupendous problem for the relief workers. In some communities the cemeteries were filled before all the victims could be buried. Bodies had to be taken hastily from one community to the church of another.

All through the afternoon funeral processions wended their way to shaken and often ruined churches. Even the wonted tolling of church bells was absent. The earthquake had so greatly weakened the towers that sextons were afraid to ring the bells.

Airplanes were the eyes of the relief workers. From three or four airfields they soared over the entire area reporting conditions so that aid could be efficiently organized and promptly dispatched.

Gale Menaces Naples.

Such was the extent of the havoc caused by the earthquake that officials could compare it only to the disastrous quake of 1908 at Messina, which ravaged Calabria and Eastern Sicily. From 75,00 to 100,000 persons perished then. A million were made homeless and 100,000 injured.

In the present case the totals are far below those at Messina, but the material damage may be nearly as great, for the region affected is rich in resources and in history.

Among the historic monuments wrecked was the famous "Palazzo Reale," or former royal palace, at Caserta, which is known as the "Versailles of Naples." It is one of the most sumptuous princely buildings in all Italy, and was built by Charles III of Bourbon.

At Naples today a gale that approached hurricane force, washing waves over the sea wall, added to the terror of the inhabitants, whose nerves were on edge from a night of anguish. Many slight structures were blown down.

Financial Aid Offered.

To calm the faithful, massed in front of the cathedral, Cardinal Asclesi, Archbishop of Naples, brought out a silver figure of Saint Gennaro, the city's patron saint. Standing on the steps, he held up the image of the saint and blessed the crowd.

Many Americans were in the earthquake zone, but the head of a big tourist agency at Naples said that none had been reported killed or injured. No mention of American victims has so far been made in government dispatches.

Offers of aid were lavished today by other communities. In addition to a sum of 100,000 lire, Milan offered 50 beds for the baby orphans of victims, and Rome was ready to care for 500 homeless children free in the seaside and mountain colonies it maintains for its own youngsters.

The foreign office was overwhelmed with telegrams of condolence from government and chiefs of state.

Four Hurt When Plane Is Hit by Lightning

New York, July 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Four men were injured seriously this evening when the Fairchild cabin seaplane in which they were flying about 50 feet above the surface of Long Island Sound, off Port Washington, was struck by lightning and fell into the water. The fliers were rescued by residents of the summer colony on the shore, who put out in canoes despite the downpour of rain.

The injured are Fred Ralph, pilot; Elton Jewett, mechanic, both of the Portland, Me., airport, and two passengers, John Ottley and Bromley Stone, both of Glen Cove, Long Island. The plane was trying to make a landing about 75 feet off shore when a bolt of lightning struck a pontoon. The motor went dead and the craft plunged into the sound.

Garrett, Envoy to Italy, Cables Rome Sympathy

Baltimore, July 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—John W. Garrett, American Ambassador to Italy, today cabled the minister of affairs at Rome, expressing sorrow at the Italian earthquake and offering all possible aid. The ambassador will sail for Italy July 30, unless word from that country asks his arrival prior to his scheduled departure.

"The quake, outside of Naples, has struck small, mountainous villages in the south of Italy," the ambassador explained, "and it is extremely difficult to maintain communication with those towns under ordinary circumstances. I nthe event of a disaster such as this, with railroads, wires and other means of communication shattered, it unquestionably will take some time to learn the ultimate loss."

Red Cross Volunteers Aid to Quake Victims

Upon receipt of further advices as to the gravity of the situation in southern Italy, following the earthquakes of Tuesday, the American National Red Cross yesterday cabled to the Italian Red Cross in Rome, as follows:

"Profoundly distressed by tragic disaster which has fallen upon your beautiful country. Would our help be welcome?"

National Geographic Society Defines Region Known as Apennines of Naples.

Stricken Italy Beset By Snows and Rains

Trento, Italy, July 24 (A.P.).—To add to the vagaries of nature that have visited Italy with calamities during the past two days, snow fell unseasonably today on the peaks of the Dolomites.

A storm swept the region around this city, and was particularly severe in the Alpine valleys.

The Adige River overflowed its banks under heavy rains, and other streams are swollen almost to the flood point. So far the waters have caused no damage.

Italy's recent earthquake was confined in its most destructive effects to the mountainous region known as the Apennines of Naples, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Just north of Naples the mountain range that extends down the middle of the Italian peninsula loses its form of a definite ridge and breaks down into rather distinct mountain groups joined by cross ranges and elevated saddles. This area of elevated masses and deep defiles, where towns and villages perch on hilltops and cling to mountain slopes, has borne the brunt of the earth tremors. Farther to the east the tableland of Apulia has been shaken, too, but not so disastrously.

Naples, situated where this broken section of the Apennines slopes down to the Tyrrhenian Sea, and close to where Vesuvius has belched out cubic miles of lava, has been shaken severely, as it has been many times before. The city is largely built of gray lava from Vesuvius, and in its old part consists of low houses along dark, narrow streets and alleys. It is Italy's most populous community in one of the world's most beautiful settings.

Birthplace of Horace.

Venosa, an inland town of 9,000 population which suffered damage, was the birthplace in 64 B. C. of Horace, best loved of Roman poets. There is buried Robert Guiscard, great Norman soldier-duke, in the Church of St. Trinita, built by him in 1059.

Melfi, another town in which the toll of life was large, lies near Venosa and under the pyramidal peaks of Monte Vulture, which marks the southern extent of the Apennines of Naples. In Melfi Robert Guiscard set up his capital until he captured Salerno, on the coast, and made that town his headquarters. Melfi was practically wiped out of existence by an earthquake in 1851.

Foggia, farthest east of the towns to feel the marked force of the recent quake, lies near the Adriatic side of the peninsula. It is the capital of the great Apulian tableland that was once a huge sheep pasture, maintaining millions of the animals. The town is large (61,000) and with its low white houses, has a somewhat oriental aspect. It was largely destroyed by an earthquake in 1731. The Apulian tableland that surrounds it has been called Italy's most dreary and barren area.

Lucera Is Nearby.

Nearby is Lucera where Emperor Frederick II planted his famous Saracen mercenaries, 60,000 strong, in the first of the thirteenth century. Frederick lived among these Moslems, dressed as "the sultan of Lucera," maintained a harem guarded by eunuchs, and used his Mohammedan forces in his struggles against the Christian soldiers of the Papacy.

Benevento, where property was damaged and lives lost, is a thriving town, capital of the region between Foggia and Naples. It is finely situated on a mountain high above the Appian Way and its two rivers. There stands one of the most imposing of the triumphal arches outside Rome, erected to Trajan. It is one of the oldest of Italian towns and stood out against the Romans successfully until 276 B. C.

Potenza, base of operations for some of the relief expeditions, was itself stricken by the recent tremors. It lies on a low saddle which cuts the Apennines and roughly marks the southwestern limit of destruction. This town of 14,000 inhabitants was almost completely razed by the earthquake of 1857, which devastated the region of the Apennines of Naples.

U. S. QUAKE RELIEF DECLINED BY ITALY

Rome Demurs With Thanks as Sympathy Telegrams Flood Embasy.

ENVOY BOUND FOR HOME

(Associated Press.)

Instructions from the foreign office in Rome to decline respectfully all offers of assistance or relief measures for the districts of Italy stricken by the earthquake were received last night by Ambassador de Martino oof Italy.

A lengthy cablegram from the ofreign office, explaining that the government was meeting the situation adequately, came simultaneously with a flood of telegrams from all parts of the United States extending sympathy to the embassy and offering financial or such other relief as might be required.

The message from Rome said the people of the affected districts had so far shown complete confidence in the measures taken by the authorities.

Many Call at Embassy.

As a mark of sympathy, representatives of all foreign missions in Washington called at the embassy and left customary cards of condolence. Among the many messages received was one from Vice Mayor Stanley Matthews of Cincinnati, who, with many others, was sent a personal note of thanks by the embassy.

Count Mattioli, the head of the royal household, upon instructions of King Victor Emmanuel, directed the ambassador personally to thank the Mayor of San Francisco for a message of sympathy sent directly to Rome.

Amid the pressure of the work De Martino prepared to depart last caused by the disaster. Ambassador night for New York where he will sail for Italy tonight on two-months' leave.

Cites Good Will.

"The touching sympathy shown by the American people in connection with the disaster only impresses me with the growing bonds between our two countries," the ambassador said. "Leaving as I am for a brief period after five and one-half years of service in the United States, I can only say that I depart cnotent in the knowledge that the relations between the United States and Italy are more cordial than in many years. Since I last returned to American shores, I have seen the adjustment of every major question between us. In addition to that the statesmen of America and taly have met on a common ground at the London naval conference and found each sincerely seeking peace.

"One of the outstanding questions settled recently has been that regarding military service of Italian-Americans who may return to Italy. That has been adjusted to the satisfaction of both governments."

Lady Owen Shoots Wife Of Lover in Paris Triangle

Failure of Phone Warning Held Factor in Wounding of Paris Doctor With Whom She Had Had Romance.

Versailles, France, July 24 (A.P.).—The failure of a telephone message today appeared as one of the causes of a drama of jealousy in which Lady Owen, French-born widow of Sir Theodore Charles Owen, yesterday shot the wife of Dr. Paul Gastaud, French radiologist.

Lady Owen, who was questioned by the investigating magistrate here today, wounded Mme. Gastaud four times with a revolver. The shooting wa sthe climax of a triangular drama. For a year she and Dr. Gastaud had had a romance.

While her ladyship was telling the magistrate that the question of money ruined her romance, her maid recounted an unsuccessful attempt to avert any accident.

She said that when she learned her mistress was going to the doctor's home at Mareuil-Marly, near the suburb of St. Germain, she tried to warn the doctor by telephone; she failed, and Mme. Gastaud was hit by the bullets apparently intended for the doctor. Lady Owen accused Dr. Gastaud of having abandoned her after borrowing money from her and after promising her marriage when he secured a divorce.

The shooting capped the climax in a lengthy series of "passional crimes" that has kept the public of Paris and its environs more or less excited for months. On the same day a stenographer at the headquarters of the French Boy Scouts organization was brutally assassinated by an unsuccessful suitor.

In the majority of these crimes it has been the woman who shot and the man who paid. Most of them have been blamed on the exhaustion of a woman's patience or the excess of her passion.

Lady Owen is supposed to have inherited a considerable fortune from the titled Englishman she married. She lived in one of the most fashionable neighborhoods of Paris, er acquaintance with Dr. Gastaud began when she became his patient.

RIVALRY IN NEW SHIP SEEN AS PACT FRUIT

Value of Combined Aircraft Carrier and Cruiser Is Studied by Nations.

BRITISH UNITING TYPES

Just as the Washington treaties stimulated a new naval rivalry in 8-inch gun cruisers, so the London treaty threatens to start a competition in developing combination airplane carriers and 6-inch gun cruisers. Experts of the American Navy are divided over the relative values of different combinations, some preferring accommodations for only a few planes, others seeking carrying capacity for as many as 20 on each proposed 10,000-ton cruiser.

Though the London treaty restricts the total tonnage of the cruiser class and apportions the number of 6 and 8 inch types which each of the three leading naval powers, Britain, Japan and the United States, may have, it allows landing on decks to be placed on 25 per cent of each nation's cruisers. As most of the existing cruisers do not have airplane equipment, the 25 per cent allowance affords wide latitude for development in new cruisers of the additional weapon of airplanes.

The Washington treaty not only left a gap by failing to limit any class of vessels save battleships, but it stimulated rivalry in big cruisers by stimulating that no power should build a cruiser larger than 10,000 tons or armed with greater than 8-inch guns. No nation at that time had such a ship. The nearest to it were the British Hawkins type cruisers of 9,700 tons, each carrying 7.5 inch guns.

The moment the treaty took effect the British, then the Japanese, began building the 10,000-tonners, mounting 8-inch guns—or what were called "treaty cruisers." The United States finally followed suit. Congress authorized eight of these treaty cruisers. When the Geneva conference broke down Congress authorized fifteen more—a total of 23.

The London conference pared the American allotment down to eighteen, but made up for the sacrifice by allowing the United States to take an additional tonnage in 6-inch-gun cruisers.

British Favor Carriers.

The London treaty, by leaving open to combined airplane weapons in 25 per cent of the permitted cruisers of each nation, apparently will, like the preceding treaty, inaugurate a new form of competition, restricted only by the tonnage limits of the treaty and the ingenuity of naval designers.

British experts are reported in favor of making miniature airplane carriers out of their new 6-inch cruiser types, so that they may carry as many as twenty planes.

As Admiral Pratt, one of the minority in the Navy who approved the London treaty, testified at Senate hearings, all this rivalry is speculative and theoretical. Insistent as the general board of the Navy has been that the United States must have 10,000-ton, 8-inch-gun cruisers, the fact is that this type and caliber of gun have never been tested in battle.

Moreover, Pratt and some experts think the 6-inch gun is as good all around as the 8-inch and that the smaller one is better for the more probable battle conditions, such as low visibility and attack by destroyers and submarines. Just as the experts are divided in the controversy over the relative merits of the 6-inch and 8-inch guns, so are they now split on the question of arming new cruisers with planes as well as guns.

Must Justify Ship.

Another motive enters into the Navy's designs. Having extolled the 8-inch-gun cruisers to the detriment of the 6-inch type, the Navy left Congress in no mood to authorize the 6-inch cruisers permitted by the treaty. In fact, Navy supporters in Congress have declared against building them at all. However, if the Navy can invent a new value for the 6-inch-gun cruiser by making it part airplane carrier, it can be justified to Congress after all.

Naval design has shifted rapidly at all times. The British experimented with new cruiser types in building the Hawkins class, but were glad to agree to scrap them under the London Treaty. The opening in the new treaty for developing the hybrid cruiser-airplane carrier apparently is to be seized upon by all the admiralties as avidly as they embraced the previously unheard-of 8-inch-gun cruiser after the Washington Treaty.

AMTORG'S LAWYER HOLDS DATA FALSE

Grammatical Error Declared to Prove Whalen Letters on Soviet Forged.

RED POLICE LINK HINTED

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—A slight grammatical error was put forward today as evidence of the fraudulence of the so-called Whalen documents, which purport to show that Soviet directed Communist activities were being conducted in the United States through the Amtorg Trading Corporation.

Joseph Michael, an Amtorg attorney, pointed out to a special Congressional committee investigating Communist activities in America, that in one of the letters which former Police Commissioner Grover Whalen made public last May, and which was ostensibly a letter to Grigory Grafpen, of Amtorg, the spelling of the word "present" was incorrect according to the new Russian grammar.

"What of it?" asked Representative John E. Nelson, of Main. "Are you telling us that a Russian can't make a mistake?"

"Not at all," Michael replied. "The importance of this is that in another of the Whalen documents, an alleged letter written by Grafpen, exactly the same error occurs. The inference is that both the letter from Grafpen and the letter to him were written by the same person."

Grafpen himself took the stand for a few minutes, testifying that he had never been a Communist and had never seen the letters in the Whalen documents already written by and to him.

Several other Amtorg officials testified, as well as a printer who said he had printed some Amtorg letterheads for a man named Vasoff and identified copies of the Whalen documents as copies of letters written on his letterheads."

The high emotional points of the day's session came with the testimony of a former Czarist officer and a former member of the Soviet secret police.

The former officer was George Djamgaroff, who identified Feodor Ziavkin, Amtorg general manager, as a former member of the O. G. P. U., secret political police of Red Russia. He said that in the last days of the revolution he, an officer in the White army on a special mission, was arrested by the Red army and questioned by the head of the O. G. P. U.'s flying squad, who slapped his face.

"It was the first time my face had been slapped," he said, "and so, although I did not know that man's name, I remembered him, and I saw him on the stand today when he said his name was Ziavkin and that he had never belonged to the O. G. P. U."

Former Officer Heard.

Although Ziavkin denied all connection, present or past, with the secret police, another witness, Michael Handler, acknowledged that he was once an important member of the O. G. P. U. and had had himself smuggled into America through Cuba when he felt that America was the safest place for him to be.

Handler told of attending a secret meeting in Moscow in 1920 at which it was decided to send two O. G. P. U. representatives here as employes of Amtorg and two others who were to have no affiliation with the trade organization. He said he didn't know whether the representatives actually wer sent.

The session closed with testimony of Michael, the Amtorg attorney, telling of a meeting of about fifteen officials of Amtorg at which it was discussed whether they should tell the truth if asked as to their communistic connections. He said he had advised that the full truth be told in answer to all questions.

FIGURES' JUGGLING CHARGED TO HOOVER

Claim on Appropriations Is Meant to Hide Facts, Byrns Declares.

BIG INCREASE SET OUT

(Associated Press.)

Charges that President Hoover had juggled figures on the appropriations made by Congress for the new fiscal year were made yesterday in a statement by Representative Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, through the Democratic national committee.

As ranking minority member on the House appropriations committee, Mr. Byrns said the statement recently issued from the White House relative to appropriations and expenditures was "another exhibition of juggling with figures, such as has been repeatedly done with reference to unemployment and economic conditions existing over the country, in an attempt to cover up the real facts."

Previously the Tennesseean, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, had said the present Congress had appropriated more than $5,000,000,000.

"The administration has chosen to ignore the figures given by the Republican chairmen of the appropriations committees of the House and Senate," he said. He added they showed appropriations exceeded those of the last session of Congress by $459,000,000, which was $23,000,000 less than the amount recommended by President Hoover.

"In his effort to explain this enormous increase in the cost of Government," Mr. Byrns continued, "the spokesman for the administration has, unintentionally of course, misled the public by saying that some of these appropriations will extend over a period of years. That is no more true with reference to the present year than of the last or any other prior year."

Duchess, Hurt in Quake, Passes Hospital Cheer

Naples, Ital, July 24 (A.P.).—The Duchess of Apulia, daughter of the Duc de Guise, pretender to the French throne, visited the crowded Pellegrini Hospital today to cheer and comfort the victims of Wednesday's earthquake.

The Duchess was formerly Princess Anne of France. Her hand was slightly injured during the earthquake at Capo di Monte palace when a picture falling from the walls struck her. At Pellegrini Hospital today the Duchess, like scores of commoners, had the wound dressed.

here for some time. He characterized them as miniature versions of the United States aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga.

They will be armed, according to the British writer, with nine 6-inch guns housed in three triple turrets placed in pyramid form on the starboard, or right hand, side of the flight deck. As the funnels, mast and superstructure will all be disposed to the starboard, most of the upper deck space, he explained, will be left free for the landing of airplanes from shore.

May Carry 20 Planes.

He scouted, however, an American report that the new ships will have a capacity of 75 airplanes each, declaring that the actual number, according to authoritative information, will be twenty machines per ship.

The vessels will be engined with Parsons or Curtiss turbines and Yarrow or White-Foster boilers; will be capable of developing a speed of 33 knots, and will have a displacement of well over 9,000 tons. He points out that these ships, therefore, will be larger than the latest British 8-inch-gun cruisers, which carry only two airplanes apiece.

LINGLE GRAND JURY GRILLS JOURNALISTS

One of Trio Says Brundidge Was Hoaxed on Stories He Published.

MAY CALL M'CORMICK

Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—A grand jury manifestly determined to thresh the chaff of false gossip from the ample harvest of rumor gleaned from the underworld since Jake Lingle died went into action today.

Three newspapermen were taken before the jury to give their accounts of published charges and insinuations of racketeering among Chicago reporters. Ten other witnesses, two of them former heads of the police department and another the mayor's chief advisor, were asked to testify tomorrow.

Harry Reutlinger, assistant city editor of the Chicago Evening American, was the first witness today, emerging after nearly an hour's hearing. He said he had told the grand jury all he knew, and added that he believed Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis Star reporter, was "the victim of a hoax. Everything I told Brundidge was a joke."

Witnesses Called by Phone.

It was the publication of Brundidge's stories of alleged racketeering by Chicago reporters that started the parade of witnesses to the grand jury chamber. The jurors went over the head of the State's attorney to invite the St. Louis man's testimony and to summon the thirteen Chicago witnesses. No formal subpenas have been issued. Each witness was called by telephone and asked to offer evidence today and tomorrow.

Reutlinger was followed on the stand by Robert M. Lee, city editor of the Tribune and for ten years "boss" of the slain Tribune reporter. Harry Read, city editor of the American, who has confirmed Brundidge's story that Read was a visitor at Al Capone's Miami estate, was the third witness of the day.

Tomorrow the jurors will put in another full day digging down to the bottom of the charges. Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel of Chicago, is to appear in the morning, as well as William F. Russell, former police commissioner, and John Stege, erstwhile detective chief. Their evidence may relate more closely to the unsolved murder of Lingle, for he was intimate with all three, held a joint brokerage account with Russell and was reported to have borrowed $5,000 from Ettelson—a transaction the corporation counsel denied.

Other Newspapermen Called.

Newspapermen will be witnesses again at the afternoon session. The jurors asked to see Walter A. Strong, publisher of the Daily News, and Leland H. Reese, crime reporter for the paper. Reese has admitted receiving threats against his life. Ted Tod, Herald and Examiner reporter; Richard Finnegan, managing editor of the Daily Illustrated Times; William H. Stuart, Evening American reporter; Roscoe C. Cornell, former city editor and now circulation manager of the Herald and Examiner, and James Murphy, veteran police reporter for the Times, have been called. Murphy was dropped from the Times staff last week when his employers learned he once held a financial interest in a speakeasy. He had been a city hall reporter for Journal and Times 27 years.

Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Tribune, may be called if the grand jury finds evidence warranting his appearance.

In March, 1924, Admiral Rousseau was appinted a receiver to preserve the status quo of the debated territory in the naval oil reserve leases. He began his career with the United States as a civil engineer with the rank of lieutenant in 1898. Braves Complete Dance of 66 Hours

Indians' Plea to Sun God for Health Ends After Weird Ceremony.

Pocatello, Idaho, July 24 (A.P.).—A plea to the sun god for continued strength and health during the coming year was completed here today by paint-daubed Indian braves, many of whom danced 66 hours without food or drink.

Sixty young Indians began the dance Monday as the sun disappeared behind the western mountains. Last night hunger and exhaustion reduced the participants to 28, but new recruits had swelled the ring of bobbing, shrilling red men to 71 when the exhibition ended.

Most of the dancers, despite the heat and the exhaustive grind of their ceremony, appeared little the worse for their ordeal. Continuing the annual festival this afternoon and tonight, braves of the Shoshone, Bannock and Lemhi tribes executed the sacred steps of the moon and bear dances. A feast of barbecued meats and other delicacies prepared by the women, ended the ceremony.

LEGISLATOR IS SHOT BY POLITICAL ENEMY

Gov. John G. Richards, who ordered his entire force of twelve State constables here, together with sheriffs and deputies from nearby counties.

Thornley made no statement before he was taken to Columbia.

The senator was a candidate for reelection in the fall elections. He had held this office, with the exception of one four-year term, for about 20 years.

It was revealed today that Senator Dennis had informed Gov. Richards yesterday he was positive he would be ambushed at an early date.

He had requested the chief executive to send national guardsmen to Berkeley for the August 26 primary to preserve order, and to prevent his opponent from "taking the ballot boxes." As head of the so-called Dennis faction, he was opposed for reelection by a leader of the anti-Dennis faction.

In 1929, Senator Dennis was tried on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law. He is a close friend of Gov. Richards and was generally credited with being instrumental in the removal by the governor of the county sheriff a few months ago, a movement which fed fuel to the smouldering political fires of the county.

A report from Charleston quoted the physician who attended the wounded senator as saying that even should he live he would be blind, as a buckshot had severed both of his optic nerves.

The shooting of Senator Dennis came within a few weeks of an attempt to assassinate Glenn D. McKnight, reputed king of the bootleggers, in the notorious "Hell Hole" swamp area of Berkeley County, who for a time served as a Federal prohibition agent. Employment of McKnight was one of the charges made against J. D. E. Myer, who recently resigned as United States district attorney for eastern South Carolina after an investigation by the Brookhart patronage committee.

McKnight was felled with a charge of buckshot as he stood at his garage door near his home a few weeks ago. He was believed fatally wounded at first, but recovered in a Charleston hospital. A State constable, J. Lom Anderson, was arrested and charged with the shooting, as was Jeremiah Wright, Monck's Corner man, who was on parole after having been convicted of participation in a triple killing four years ago, in which a brother of McKnight was a victim.

Less than a month before the McKnight attack Legrande Cumbee, 18, was slain from ambush and his father, Sabb Cumbee, seriously wounded while riding through Hell Hole. Wilbur Cumbee and Will Kales are in the penitentiary awaiting trial in connection with this affray.

PARIS TARIFF HITS U.S., SMOOT HOLDS

Senator Declares French Levy Discriminates Against American Goods.

OTHER CRITICS ASSAILED

Chairman Smoot (Republican), Utah, of the Senate finance committee, yesterday took foreign critics of the Grundy tariff bill to task for their complaints against that measure and threats of retaliatory measures. In particular, he asserted that France discriminates far more against American-made commodities than does the United States against French products.

"Take France for instance," he said, "an examination will show that we buy goods from France to the value of $56,000,000 per annum. We also spend about $300,000,000 of tourist money in France so that the French receive from us $450,000,000 a year as against about $160,000,000 which they spend for goods they purchase in the United States.

"The volume of trade including the tourist money, in favor of France, amouts to $290,000,000. Of the $156,000,000 worth of goods exported, the tariffs were increased on $31,000,000. At the same time they were decreased on $14,000,000. Moreover many of the items on which the increases were made were purely luxuries and the tariffs were in the nature of revenues from our point of view and would not in any way affect the volume of imports. The total average increase is about 3½%."

"We make our tariffs equal to everybody alike," Smoot went on. "The French government, however, has a maximum and minimum tariff within the boundaries of which they bargain with other countries for favored positions, the net result of which is that sharp discriminations are set up against American goods which have damaged American exports to France.

"In fact, since these discriminations were undertaken our exports to France have been decreasing, or in any event have not increased as in the case of all other countries in the world. If there is any complaint over tariff questions the whole of this complaint rests with the United States."

Smoot revealed that he had never taken the foreign protests seriously.

"For the last few days I have been examining into the protests of certain foreign countries against the tariff act," he said. "I knew they were unjust, but I hardly realized that there was no ground whatsoever for many of the countries protesting."

The senator's statement was issued immediately after a conference with President Hoover at the White House.

Modification Seen On Packers' Decree

Legge Says Farm Board Is in Favor of Aiding Distribution.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Legge said yesterday that members of the Farm Board favored modification of the packers' consent decree.

His statement followed recommendation of the live stock advisory committee to President Hoover that the decree be changed to allow packers who signed the agreement to retail meats. Mr. Legge said the retailing process was the "weakest leg in the distributing system." He added that the Farm Board had taken no action on the decree, but the members individually favored altering its provisions.

Packers who signed the agreement have appealed to the courts for modification. The Farm Board chairman said that in his opinion no reduction was necessary in live stock production. He said the problem was one of "underconsumption."

Philippine Post to Go To Nicholas Roosevelt

(Associated Press.)

Indications have been given at the White House that Nicholas Roosevelt of New York will be given a recess appointment as Vice Governor of the Philippines.

Secretary Hurley, on leaving the White House after a conference with the President, said some action was expected in the near future. Mr. Roosevelt was nominated vice governor by the Chief Executive but was not confirmed by the Senate before the special session adjourned. Objections were made by advocates of Philippine independence.

Mother Hacked Dead As Children Slumber

Hartford, Conn., July 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ida Diamond, 27 years old, was hacked to death in her home early today while her three small children slept in an adjoining room.

Her husband, Nathan Diamond, 28 years old, a taxi driver, who told police he had found his wife's body in a bathroom, was held after several hours' questioning by detectives. The Diamonds, police said, had been unhappy almost from the day they were married six years ago. On one occasion she complained to the probation department that Diamond had failed to support her for several months.

Identification Is Made Of Slain Woman's Body

Akron, Ohio, July 24 (A.P.).—The body of a woman with head and limbs detached, found in a blackberry patch near Hudson, Ohio, yesterday, was identified today by Marshal Clyde Smith, of North Randall, Ohio, as that of his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Smith, who had been missing from home since June 16.

Apparently Mrs. Smith had been murdered by shooting about three weeks ago. The limbs and head then had been severed and tossed into the blackberry patch along with the torso. A hole in the head from the top to the base was believed by officers to have been made by a bullet of large caliber. The bullet was not found. A necklace, a ring and a brooch were left on the body.

Tree-Sitter Is Deposed From Perch by Polecat

Lexington, Ky., July 24 (A.P.).—L. T. Brumagen, young Lexington tree-sitter, was forced to abandon his perch today when a polecat disputed ownership of the tree.

Brumagen had been up 56 hours when the skunk arrived and took a liking to the tree. The tree sitter's ground crew came to his rescue and killed the prowling animal. Brumagen and his ground crew then voted unanimously to vacate immediately.

St. Louis Refuel Fliers Make Repairs in Air

St. Louis, July 24 (A.P.).—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, seeking to regain their lost endurance flight record, had their first trouble today since taking off Monday morning, but it proved nothing serious, and tonight they continued to cruise leisurely over Lambert-St. Louis Field.

At 11:30 a. m. they dropped a note asking the refueling plane to send up nuts and bolts for the stabilizer, the equipment which balances the plane. A note at 4:05 p. m. said the stabilizer had been repaired. Tonight was the fourth night in the air for Jackson and O'Brine.

County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr has been recently called to several communities in Fairfax County, where persons suspected they had captured Japanese beetles. In each case, however, it proved to be a false alarm, as the agent found the insects to be the bronze-green milkweed beetle, a beautifully colored but practically harmless bug that feeds upon silk weeds.

The county agent describes the Japanese beetle as having brownish bronze wings shorter than its body and thick, sturdy legs. The milkweed variety has bright green wings as long as its body and has very slender legs and body. He suggests that any one in doubt send the specimens to him, as it is desired to keep in close touch with the movements of the Japanese beetle.

POLICIES OF SOUTH LISTED FOR DEBATE

Labor, Industrial and Foreign Trade Issues Go Before Coming Institute.

MAJ. HODGES IN CHARGE

Charlottesville, Va., July 24 (A.P.).—Southern labor policies, industrial power policies and foreign trade policies will be discussed before the round table on "The Economic and Industrial Development of the South," which is to be an important feature of the fourth institute of public affairs at the University of Virginia from August 3 to 16.

Leroy Hodges, managing director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, will direct this round table for a second summer. Maj. Hodges has just returned from several weeks in England in the interest of stimulating trade relations.

Three Vital Problems.

Two meetings of the round table will be given over to each of the three important problems to be considered. The labor policy of the South will be discussed on August 5 and 7, the industrial power policy on August 9 and 12 and the foreign trade policy on August 14 and 16.

John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, of Lebanon, Tenn.; Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, of New York City, and Victor A. Clander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, will be among those discussing the labor question as it relates to Southern industries.

Speakers on the industrial policy for the South will be Sidney Z. Mitchell, head of the Electric Bond & Share Co. of New York, and Preston W. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Co.

South's Foreign Trade.

The South's foreign trade policy will be discussed by William Jett Lauck, chairman of the advisory council of the Bureau of Applied Economics, and Floyd W. Jefferson, of the Iselin-Jefferson Co. of New York.

Under the leadership of Maj. Hodges there will be an open forum August 5 on the economic effect of prohibition on Southern industrial development. Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, and C. O'Connor Goolrick, of Fredericksburg, Va., one of Virginia's leading attorneys, will be on opposite sides of this question.

Baltimore Woman Dies in Auto Crash

Mrs. Catherine Keckler, 42, Killed and Six Hurt as Machine Upsets.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 24.—One woman was instantly killed and six others were injured when an automobile in which they were riding crashed into a road culvert on the Baltimore pike 6 miles east of here late this afternoon and upset.

The dead woman is Mrs. Catherine Keckler, 42, of Baltimore, and the injured, who are at the City Hospital, are Mrs. Frances Keller, mother of the dead woman; Mrs. Reinsberger, 50; Mrs. Mildred Lynch, 27; Mrs. Dora Kay, 48; Catherine Ray, 14, and Jean Lynch, 3.

The party, all of Baltimore, left Baltimore on an outing. Descending a hill, Mr. Keckler, who was driving the car, lost control and the car veered to the side of the road and struck the culvert with great force. The impact threw the machine around and it upset. Mrs. Keckler was pinned under the machine and died in a few minutes from a broken neck. A passing automobilist from Washington and two truck drivers released the women and took them to the hospital. With the exception of Mrs. Reinsberger, who had a fractured leg, was lacerated and bruised about the body, the others were not badly hurt. The car was badly damaged.

Mr. Forman stated that the matter was brought to his attention by a petition filed by a number of residents along Strickler avenue in which it was alleged that the poultry plant in question was located in the rear of Mr. Waters' home on his lots on the west side of Strickler avenue.

The contract for the addition of 32 classrooms to the Washington Lee High School has been awarded to J. W. Coleman, of Lynchburg, Va., and it is expected that work will be under way by Monday of next week. The contract calls for the completion of the work by January 15, 1931.

Special to The Washington Post.

Colored Schools' Problems Studied

Capital Man Speaks at Teachers' Convention in Petersburg.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 24.—Speaking on "the present status of trade and vocational education among Negroes" in the general session of the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools, here today, G. David Houston, principal of the Armstrong Technical High School at Washington, took the position that vocational education must keep pace with modern machinery used in industry and that skilled mechanics rather than mere college graduates are best suited for teachers in vocational schools.

W. A. Robinson, of Knoxville, Tenn., reported on a study of 77 colored high schools in 16 Southern States. The report revealed that in the great majority of cases the buildings were overcrowded, teachers overworked and underpaid. The survey also found a lack of gymnasium or program of physical education, library and laboratory facilities and a janitor service not sufficiently large to keep the building clean.

In the morning session W. C. Newbold, director of the division of Negro education, State department of instructions, at Raleigh, N. C., read a committee report of the national education association. Mr. Newbold said that his committee had been unable to find a worthwhile health education program in operation anywhere among colored schools, that the death rate among colored school children is more than six times as high as among white children.

DOGS TO FEATURE FAIR AT ROCKVILLE

Sporting Animals Only to Be Eligible for Exhibit August 19 to 23.

MANY ENTRIES LISTED

Sporting dogs only will be eligible for the dog show which this year will be one of the most attractive features of the Rockville Fair, August 19, through August 23.

The decision of the fair association to limit the number of breeds was reached after consulting the dog lovers of the county. It was decided that as the four breeds, foxhounds, beagles, bird dogs and pointers, are by far the most popular and numerous, it would be wiser to limit the show to them, putting all the money into prizes for them only.

Members of the dog show committee are Edward P. Abbe, of Chevy Chase, Md.; Z. M. Wafers, of Gaithersburg, Md.; C. F. Haight, of Brookeville, Md, and Dr. T. A. Ladson, of Olney, Md.

District of Columbia fanciers of the four breeds will be largely represented. Already entries have been made by a number of District sportsmen and the committee expects to list more as the time for the fair approaches.

U. S. TO DISALLOW ENVOYS' RUM BILLS

order carries out a specific provision of the law.

For years the State Department sought legislation providing for allowances to diplomatic and consular officers. In 1924 Congress granted the authority, but no funds were provided, and for several years the department did not press the matter on account of Coolidge economy. At the last session an item was inserted carrying an appropriation of $94,000. In view of the large number of diplomatic and consular posts, no ambassador, minister or consul will receive a large allotment from this fund during the current fiscal year. It is freely predicted, however, that the appropriation will be increased in future years on the ground that it is essential that American representatives abroad stage certain official entertainments, and hardly fair to them to require that they foot all bills from their own funds.

Ambassador Dawes caused considerable comment not only in London but elsewhere when he announced soon after his arrival that no liquor would be served in the American Embassy while he was in charge.

Foreign service officers serve liquor in their homes while serving abroad and feel that custom demands they do so. They are not forbidden to serve liquor, but only told by the President that it must not be charged to the representation allowance.

The funds may be used for other purposes in connection with receptions at American missions on national holidays, for flowers and wreaths for weddings and funerals of distinguished persons, tips and gratuities, where they tend to help maintain prestige, dinners, formal and informal functions and special entertainments.

In addition to forbidding the use of these funds for the purchase of liquor, the law prohibits their expenditure on automobiles, club or association dues or printing or engraving expenses.

FORMER GOVERNORS SEEK SENATE TOGA

Four Who Have Ruled State of Oklahoma Entered in Primary Race.

TWO OUSTED FROM JOBS

Oklahoma City, July 24 (A.P.).—A battle of former governors is being waged in Oklahoma for a seat in the United States Senate.

Four men who have been chief executives of the State, two of whom were ousted from office, are bidding for nomination in the primary election on July 29.

Three of the former governors seek the Senate nomination on the Democratic ticket—Henry S. Johnston, deposed from the governor's chair by impeachment in 1929; J. B. A. Robertson, a wet, who was saved from impeachment in 1922 by a single vote, and Lee Cruce, whose record as governor from 1911 to 1915 was not questioned.

The fourth former governor, J. C. Walton, whose fight against impeachment in 1923 created nation-wide attention, is running on the independent ticket, although he formerly held office as a Democrat.

On the Republican ticket Senator W. B. Pine, incumbent, seeks renomination.

In addition to the three former governors, there are eight other candidates for the senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket. These include T. P. Gore, blind former senator, and C. J. Wrightsman, Tulsa oil man.

Johnson's battle for votes has been based on a platform of "exoneration." Speaking in almost every city and town, he has covered the entire State, charging he was "railroaded from office" last year.

Walton's impeachment in 1923 followed martial law in parts of the State as an upshot of his differences with the Ku Klux Klan.

Robertson, governor from 1919 to 1923, has injected the prohibition issue into the campaign by announcing that he favrs repeal of the Volstead act.

Triplets Born in Kentucky.

Whitesburg, Ky., July 24 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—Triplets, five-pound girls, were born Friday to Mrs. Bill Hall, wife of a farmer at Pert Creek, near Whitesburg. It was the fourth birth in the family in a little more than eighteen months.

Auto Hits Man Near Home.

Knocked down by an automobile in front of his home, Michael Cagham, 62 years old, of Georgia avenue near Forty-fifth street, received leg and arm injuries early last night. He was treated at his home by Dr. R. J. Carbo.

44 CHINA MISSION WORKERS RESCUED

U. S. and British Consular Officials Aid Removal From Bandit Peril.

SOME ARE STILL IN FIELD

Shanghai, July 24 (A.P.).—Once again foreign missionaries are fleeing from interior China as a result of banditry and Communist outlawry.

Accompanied by American and British consular officials, 44 missionaries, long marooned in the upper Min River valley near Shaowu and Yenping, Fukien Province, were taken to safety last night at Foochow, capital and metropolis, near the coast.

Others were expected at Foochow soon, and some, notably Edwin Kellogg, of Portland, Oreg., had arrived at Shanghai. Whether four missionaries held at Pochow, Anhwei Province, were released when nationalists recaptured that stronghold from northern rebels had not been determined.

Americans in Majority.

Of the 44 taken to Foochow, 21 were Americans, and the remainder British. The Americans were mostly Methodists and Congregationalists.

Several other Methodists and Congregationalists remained in the upper Min valley. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Skinner, of Topeka, Kans., and Miss Mame Glassburner, Woodbine, Iowa, remained at Yenping, where a Methodits mission hospital was filled with wounded soldiers.

Congregational missionaries evacuated were from Shaofu. Several others remain to be rescued. These include Miss E. J. Harrison and Miss Nettleton of England. They were captured by bandits near Chungchan.

The missionaries were taken to Foochow in a launch flying British and American flags. They were not molested in the trip down the Min.

Bandits Ravage Country.

Kellogg said roving bandits and Communists controlled Fukien and Kiangsi provinces and were killing, robbing and burning ruthlessly.

He said they were trying to destroy every evidence of "capitalism and foreign imperialism" and the government was powerless. Missionaries were unable to live there, he said, and worse conditions are expected.

In the spring of 1927 there was a general exodus of missionaries from the interior due, they declared, to Communist and bandit outlawry. Later many returned.

Capital Kiwanian Lauds Hagerstown Club Work

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., July 24.—Activities of the Hagerstown Kiwanis Club in the interest of under-privileged children were cited today by Edwin F. Hill, of Washingtown, lieutenant governor of the first division, Capital Kiwanis district, in an address. The club has improved the infirmary at the orphan's home and has helped many individual children.

A cabin for use of the Boy Scouts has also been built by Kiwanis, Mr. Hill pointed out. The speaker also praised the enterprise of newspapers and spoke of their relation to civic progress. Edgar Morris, past president of the Washington Club, accompanied him.

special meeting of the Federation of Citizens Associations held last Monday night in the District Building. The new rate schedule, which will be submitted, will be proposed for approval by the commission without regard to what Congress does about the pending minor legislation, the gas company president said.

Construction of a by-product coke plant for the production of gas is contemplated by the new owners. They expect to make money out of the sale of by-products of the coal, as well as out of the gas obtained from it. Another part of the program is a determined effort to increase the use of gas for household heating.

BELIEF GROWS GUN IS BAKER PISTOL

tional Cemetery, between 3:30 and 4 o'clock.

Herman H. Barrere was closeted with detectives late yesterday. He wished to discuss his possibility of release from jail. Mr. Gloth told him he would not be freed while Campbell remains a suspect.

Barrere sent several notes to Mr. Gloth asking that he send for Raymond Neudecker, Washington attorney. Mr. Gloth was unable to reach the attorney just then and Barrere complained about the "service" he was getting. Mr. Neudecker arrived later and announced that he would attempt to have Barrere released. His request was refused. Mr. Neudecker said he was representing Barrere in an action not involving the Baker case.

Mr. Smith, Campbell's attorney, last night issued a statement saying that he had made an independent investigation of his client's movements on April 11 and that this proved to him that Campbell has an ironclad alibi.

Hysteria in Inquiry Claimed.

"The press seems to have jumped at what I consider an unwarranted conclusion," he said, "that it has been definitely established that Campbell's pistol is the death gun. Hysteria has played a tremendous part in this investigation as it does in all such cases. I have repeatedly suggested that all methods known to science be exhausted in an effort to check the reputed findings of one expert.

"I now suggest that the expert to whom this matter will be referred for further investigation either be unacquainted with the supposed facts regarding the gun or else be fully advised of the improbability that the gun could have been used in the murder. I think that the investigation should not be biased by the probability of prejudgment. I have been in communication with a school of experts who have definite views on this subject and I am privileged to say at this time only that I have no doubt as to what the final findings of this subject will disclose."

Mr. Smith welcomes a continued investigation of his client's movements on the day of the murder. "I will be prepared, at the proper time, to prove beyond all reasonable doubt that he had no connection with the murder of Mary Baker," he said.

Motorist Forced Off Road Suffers Injury

Forced off the road by another automobile, Samuel W. Nowlin, 40 years old, of Kensington, Md., was injured last night under the Silver Spring, Md., viaduct. A passing motorist took him to Walter Reed Hospital, where he was found to have suffered a broken rib and proable internal injuries.

Nowlin, who is a veteran of the World War, was treated by Dr. Thomas J. Lewis. He said his car struck a pole and that the other automobile failed to stop.

NORTHERN VIRGINIA LEADS HORSE SHOW

Squiffy, Victor at Keswick, Adds Another Trophy at Orange.

MANY ENTER HANDICAP

Orange, Va., July 24.—Entries from Northern Virginia scored heavily at today's Orange Horse Show.

Squiffy, chestnut gelding by Omar Khayyam, who last month won the Albemarle Hunt Trophy at the Keswick Horse Show, was again piloted to victory by its owner, Miss Edith C. Nesbit, of Warrenton, in the class for green hunters.

In the event for yearlings, suitable to become hunters, first prize and a medal presented by the Virginia Horse Breeders' Association for horses bred in Virginia and Jefferson County, W. Va., was carried off by Sandy, a chestnut gelding owned by E. L. Redmon, Middleburg.

Many Enter Handicap.

Another well-filled event was the handicap class in which performance only counted. Thirty-one horses paraded before the judges, who awarded first place to Collette, 6-year-old chestnut mare, owned by Robert H. R. Blickle, jr., Warrenton.

The class for horses suitable to become hunters brought a formidable array of thoroughbreds into the ring, 21 entries in all. All horses in this class were bred in Orange or adjoining counties and were shown under saddle at a walk, trot, canter and hand gallop, being judged on conformation and way of going, previous winners in this class being ineligible. Randolph Ortman's Paddy O'Spangle was adjudged winner.

AMTORG'S THREAT.

Unless the accusations made against the Amtorg Trading Corporation, commercial agency of Soviet Russia in the United States, are withdrawn, and the committee investigating communism finds them baseless, trade between the two countries may be disrupted. Such is the threat of Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of Amtorg, in response to the congressional probe. It is a palpable attempt to intimidate the committee, and put an end to its efforts to uproot communist activities in America.

Amtorg is organized as an American corporation, but it is owned and controlled by the Soviet government in Moscow. The committee believes it is in possession of evidence that Amtorg is the connecting link between the Communist party in Russia and that in the United States, through which propaganda for a world revolution is disseminated. The authenticity of this evidence is denied by Amtorg officials, but they make no further effort to exonerate themselves. It is an indisputable fact that the corporation is an agency of the communist dictatorship. Its orders come from Moscow. Whether it is instructed to purchase American sheep or flood the country with propaganda those orders must be obeyed.

Bogdanov and other officials of Amtorg "resign" from the Communist party when they are sent to take up their missions in America, with the privilege of reinstatement when they return. This is to evade the American immigration law excluding communists. But Bogdanov admitted before the committee that he is still a communist at heart, and that he would again become an active member of the party if he should return to Russia. He is merely carrying his cloak of communism on his arm for the present.

The presence of these communist agents in the United States means that the immigration laws have been evaded. The law clearly states that aliens who believe in or advocate the overthrow of the Government by force or violence shall not be admitted to the United States. It applies equally to members of organizations which advocate sedition. When such aliens do gain admittance, the law provides that they shall be deported. Estimates growing out of the current investigation indicate that more than 80 per cent of the communists in this country are aliens. It is obvious that if the law were strictly enforced bolshevist intrigue would disappear.

Advantages to be gained from trade with the Soviets are mythical. As Representative Nelson declared, by dealing with the communist regime the United States is helping to undermine the existing economic and social order. The communists have set out to revolutionize the world. One attack they plan on the so-called capitalist nations is to flood them with cheap goods produced by forced labor. The government has taken possession of all resources, and directs all labor. Workmen toil for a pittance, while the government exports their earnings to other countries in the form of agricultural and manufactured commodities. The objective is to ruin the commerce of other nations and to use the resulting wealth in the interests of the world revolution.

It is questionable whether any Soviet products should be admitted under the tariff law, which excludes importation of everything made by indentured labor. Having forbidden slavery, the United States can not consistently encourage a system based on the principle that every man is a servant of the state. The interests of American workmen are too seriously involved.

Communism is inimical to modern civilization. Religion, government, social standards and economic freedom are threatened by it. Advantages gained from Soviet trade are the meanest trifle compared with the disaster that would be involved in the triumph of the bolshevists. This threat of a boycott ought to be answered by deportation of every alien communist in the country. Those who think that threats of a boycott can change the attitude of the Government toward bolshevist intrigue ought to be first to feel the iron hand of the law.

STRICKEN ITALY.

Nature has been unkind to southern Italy. Earthquakes have brought terror into the hearts and disaster into the homes of her people since history was first recorded. It is as if some great monster rose out of the sea at irregular intervals, seized the boot-shaped peninsula by the heel and shook it violently. The earth heaves, groans and becomes quiet under its ruin, only to shudder again when the debris has been cleared away, new homes built in place of old, and recollection of the previous horrors begun to grow dim in the memories of the adult population.

The Southern Calabria disaster of 1783 left a great area desolate. The Messina quake of 1908 claimed 100,000 lives and left 1,000,000 persons homeless. In 1915 a temblor spread destruction through three central Italian provinces, taking a toll of 30,000 lives. The extent of the present disaster will likely not be known for several days. But it is apparent that the casualties will be numbered by the thousands, and unless immediate relief is given other thousands may succumb to epidemics. Water lines have been disconnected and communications broken. Medical supplies are scarce and in some cases the injured are lying on stretchers with little attention. Thousands of victims are homeless and without food.

Fear of additional tremors, which are to some extent justified by scientific forecasts, keeps the population in a state of frenzy. No horror can be so acute as that which comes from a realization that the earth whereon one lives is so unstable as to shake a village to splinters. Experience in earthquakes is of little advantage in dealing with them, but it increases their terror manyfold.

To the geologist who is able to see beyond the suffering and distress of this seismic disturbance it means simply another internal adjustment that Mother Earth was forced to make because of the cooling and contraction of her crust. When the strain becomes great the great blocks that form the outer crust must give way. By this slipping process great mountain ranges are built. This quake is another reminder to Italy that, geographically, she is still in the process of formation.

Realization that the phenomenon is a natural process by which the earth adjusts herself to new conditions does not, however, mitigate the distress it occasions. Italy has the sympathy of all mankind in its loss and bereavement.

THE TREATY ADVANCES.

The British House of Commons passed the second reading of the bill supporting the London naval pact without a division. The action corresponds in effect to the recent approval accorded the treaty by the United States Senate. Two of the powers thus have expressed approval of the work turned out by their delegates to the London conference and it remains only for Japan to act favorably for the treaty to become fully effective.

The agreement reached by three great powers to limit their armaments, if it is observed rigorously, will have far-reaching effect. The London Treaty itself is not a perfect document, but it was drafted by the nations concerned in good faith and it stands in evidence of their mutual desire to preserve the peace of the world. The overwhelming vote by which the Senate approved the treaty constituted a guarantee to the other signators that the American people stand almost as one behind the document. Approval of the supporting legislation without a division by the House of Commons is gratifying in that it shows a similar undivided determination on the part of the British people to stand behind the pact.

Japan is expected to approve the treaty before the first of September. Her formal approval is awaited by the American and the British people who are anxious that the terms of this friendly and far-reaching treaty may soon become the measure of the three fleets.

WATERWAYS HELP RAILWAYS.

About two years ago certain railway executives made public a broadside attacking the Government program of waterway development. As the railroads are the basic carriers they declared it to be unfair for the Government to lend its assistance in the furtherance of a policy calculated to injure the railroads. Today, however, railroad men generally favor inland waterways, because they recognize in waterways indispensable adjuncts to a well-rounded transportation machine upon which their prosperity and general prosperity depend.

Secretary Hurley's recent radio speech summed up the advantages that will accrue from full development of waterways. The second quarter of the twentieth century, he said, will witness a population increase of 40,000,000, for which a transportation system will have to be provided. The present system is little more than adequate for the present population. Broad engineering vision and strong executive guidance are necessary in order that the present transportation facilities may be expanded and utilized to meet the needs of a rapidly growing population. Railways, highways, airways and waterways will be multiplied. The railways will continue to perform the great burden of freight service that waterways can not undertake. Highways will reach into areas that waterways can not serve. Airways will more and more serve the needs of transportation where time is a vital consideration. Waterways will relieve other forms of transportation by moving bulky, low-rate commodities. In doing so they will perform a special service which is fundamental in assuring minimum cost of transportation.

Purchase of the Cincinnati Georgetown Railroad a few weeks ago by the Koppers Co., of Pittsburgh, gives evidence of how improvement of waterways is destined to work to the advantage of the railroads. The Cincinnati Georgetown Railroad is a short line that has been operated at a deficit for many years, but its right of way starts on the banks of the Ohio River and connects with the right of way of other carriers having ingress to the industrial communities of Hamilton and Middletown, Ohio, where the Koppers Co. has large steel mills. The Koppers organization acquired the railway for the purpose of developing a river-rail terminal on the river-front, where coal can be unloaded from barges for transshipment to the Hamilton and Middletown mills, and where products of the mills can be transferred from cars to barges for shipment through the Mississippi Valley. The transaction gives definite evidence that industry plans to utilize the waterways to the fullest extent, and that in so doing the railways will enjoy increased business.

Secretary Hurley said: "The development of water transportation and the consequent increased industrial opportunities will increase railroad traffic. Each form of transportation operating in its own sphere supplements all other forms and adds to their prosperity and usefulness." It is becoming increasingly apparent that development of the waterways will mark a transportation revolution that will bring benefits to the whole country, equal to those that followed the extended development of the railroads.

GLENN H. CURTISS.

Glenn H. Curtiss contributed to aviation even in death. The prosaic nature of his passing was in itself a testimonial to the practicability and safety of flying. Here was a man who began flying when human flight was regarded as an impractical dream; when its proponents were classed with the proponents of perpetual motion, and when an airplane looked like nothing so much as a huge box kite. Time and again the land-bound conservatives of those early days predicted for him a violent death. Yet he now dies at 52 in the serenity of a Buffalo hospital, not as the result of a spectacular crash, but after an operation for one of the most common ailments of mankind, namely, appendicitis.

A craving for speed led Glenn Curtiss to take to wings. A bicycle racer in his youth, he moved into the aeronautical field in 1907, joining with Alexander Graham Bell and others of the Aerial Experiment Association, to develop and build a successful airplane. The Wrights, although they had made their first flight in 1903, had not yet flown publicly. The ship that Curtiss built, the Red Wing, flew a distance of 318 feet and then "cracked up." But that was the first public flight in America.

Later on Curtiss took the old plane of Prof. Langley out of the Smithsonian Institution, equipped it with pontoons and flew it from the water at Hammondsport, N. Y. That is why the Langley plane now bears a tablet that says it was the first airplane ever built capable of flight under its own power. That, too, is why the Wright ship is now in a British museum, the surviving Wright brother contending that Curtiss' test was unfair.

Curtiss and the Wright brothers engaged in a long and sometimes bitter legal quarrel, but today one of the greatest of all aviation firms, the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, bears the illustrious names of both. This is eminently fitting, for although the Wright brothers gave the airplane to the world, to Glenn Curtiss must go much of the credit for perfecting it and making it the commonplace vehicle that it is today.

BIRDS AND BUDS

From the London Times.

From time to time small birds of various kinds are arraigned as despoilers of the buds of fruit trees. The indictment is often severe, and with some birds its severity seems to indicate casual observation as well as a lack of a sense of proportion on the part of the framers. Of late the bullfinch has been vigorously assailed and, if the defense of this handsome bird is weak, it is doubtless because the bird, by its bud-eating proclivities, has itself done much to cut the ground from under the feet of would-be defenders; moreover, like all gluttons, it is wasteful of food and will nip off more buds than it can swallow. The case against chaffinches and greenfinches is strong, too, but, though in some years these birds seem to hold a bud-destroying competition, they are less persistently destructive than the bullfinch. And the same may be said of the ubiquitous house sparrow.

The blackbird is often abused by gardeners and fruit growers alike, and if, happily, the joys of bud-eating are foreign to it, no one with his eyes open can doubt that at the appropriate season the bird adds a liberal proportion of fruit to its normal diet of worms and insects. All great singers, however, have their peculiarities, and the loss of a little fruit from orchard or garden is not an exorbitant price to pay for the exquisite solos which add so much to the joy of life, or for the good the bird does as an entomologist. Of that other great singer, the thrush, the keenest fruit grower can say but little in disparagement; for, though perhaps occasionally it feels the want of the vitamins present in raspberry and currant, its needs are modest. The oft-repeated story that birds nip off fruit buds and dismember flowers for fun—with the sparrow and the crocus as the classic example—is based on slender evidence, and may have been invented by some gardner as a simple explanation of an action which he did not understand. Some birds, like bullfinches, eat buds whole, because they like them, and in dry seasons thirst may add another temptation. Others, again, will peck a bud to reach an insect which unerring instinct tells them is inside it. When flowers are stripped the culprit may be in search of nectar or of an insect.

As the years pass more and more of the problems which beset fruit growers and farmers find their solution in the laboratory. Research has been of material help in keeping down diseases and pests of fruit trees, but no one seems to have sought the aid of science against the ravages of certain birds. Whether they can fairly be reckoned as pests is largely a matter of locality and season, but it should not be impossible for science to evolve a spray which, though harmless, should be as distasteful to bud-ravaging birds as quassia was to nail-biting children of Victorian days, and force them to get their living in ways that are harder perhaps but more appreciated by fruit growers. The matter has only to be serious enough for a remedy to be found for it which need not involve the death of the culprits.

MONEY AND MANNA.

If money were manna and soured overnight,
As the children of Israel learned in their flight,
We should live day by day and be fairly content,
Knowing dollars were useless unless they were spent;
Yet sometimes I fancy, with all of its power,
Money, selfishly hoarded, turns rancid and sour.

The stuff can be kept; there's no doubt about that;
But the soul may grow lean while the purse waxes fat.
Under box lid and lock in strong vaults man can hold
Whatever he gathers of silver and gold;
But whenever a mortal has more than enough
The acid of selfishness poisons the stuff.

Who keeps it too long robs himself of the fun
Of the good in the world which his gold could have done;
The dollars of misers but prove at the end
That their hearts were too narrow to give or to spend;
And too late they learn in their last conscious hour
That money, like manna, long kept, may go sour.

A Sufficient Reason for Feeding a Friend Is the Fact That He Is Hungry.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

WHAT is the purpose of a pension?

Is it an expression of gratitude?

Is it a compensation for damages?

Or is it a benevolence to those in need?

Is a pension an evidence of generosity, or is it the payment of a debt?

In order to determine how much or how little the Government should pay to veterans, it is necessary first of all to decide why the payment is made.

If a pension is compensation for hurts received in battle, and sentiment plays no part in the transaction, it is obvious that the size of the payment should be determined by the degree of injury suffered.

The injury, however, may be financial as well as physical.

If it destroys or lessens the injured one's earning capacity, the payment must equal the sum of money he might have earned if he had not been injured.

That is common practice and common justice.

If, then, the purpose of a pension is to pay for damage done, the incapacitated laborer must be paid the $4 a day he might have earned and the brilliant young lawyer must be paid the much greater sum he might have earned.

If the pension is not a payment for damages but merely an expression of gratitude, how can it be limited to those who were injured?

Is the Government grateful to a veteran because he rendered service or is it merely grateful to him for getting shot?

If the pension is an expression of gratitude, all who served must receive it and each must in fairness be paid in accordance with the degree of service rendered.

The man who merely dug ditches must be paid little despite his many wounds, and the man who captured a regiment must be paid much though he receive no hurt at all.

But if the pension is prompted by sentiment and justice alike, and its purpose is the common sense one of caring for useful servants who earned the right to be cared for and can no longer care for themselves, then it should provide a decent living for every veteran who is incapacitated—whether he is helpless by reason of wounds or old age or his own folly.

Nothing can justify a pension except service and need, and nothing more is necessary to justify it.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

THIS TREE-SITTING CRAZE.

The silly season is on. With six weeks to go, summer has already produced a tree-sitting epidemic, a bicycle endurance craze, a nonstop seesaw contest and the seasonal trip over Niagara Falls in a barrel.

• • • •

The tree-sitting epidemic presents the greatest occasion for viewing with alarm. It began in New Jersey when a 12-year-old boy scampered up a tree to get away from an irate parent's boot. The idea has now spread to 38 States and the country is puzzled whether to put it down as a symptom of simple mindedness or a juvenile revolt against orthodox diversions.

• • • •

In New Jersey tree sitting has assumed its most violent aspects. Throw a stick into a tree for apples in that State and you will get a shower of half-witted boys. The Government Forestry Bureau is very much alarmed. It has perfected a poison for every known tree pest but doesn't know any spray that will eliminate goofy children from stalwart oaks.

• • • •

The effect on parents has been interesting. At first they were merely puzzled. They couldn't make up their minds whether to send for a children's specialist or a tree surgeon. Later they seemed to regard it as proof that Darwin was right, and that there was no reason to get frightened unless the kiddies began throwing down coconuts.

• • • •

Now the tendency of the old folks is to gaze blankly at the children spending a vacation on a branch and take it philosophically as a strange diversion that at least keeps the kiddies out of heavy traffic and neighbors' flower beds.

• • • •

But it gives no normal father any thrill of satisfaction or hope for the future when he beholds the boy he hoped might be President sitting half asleep up a cherry tree and insisting that he get his three meals a day on the end of a rope.

In El Paso, Tex., a 9-year-old girl was among the first to take to the tall branches and go simian. She took off with a pitcher of water, a few crackers and a magazine, announcing that she anticipated a pleasant vacation surrounded by woodpeckers, squirrels and apple worms.

• • • •

There's no telling when the epidemic will end. The country joins in a sincere hope that it may all be over before the apple harvesting season. Nobody wants to find his barrel of cider full of children's clothing.

HOT WEATHER AMBISH!

Oh, to be a life guard
On such a day as this
And watch for troubled bathers
When not a bather is!

Big Bill Tilden will play on the Davis Cup Team, thanks to a lifting of the player-writer rule by the Davis Cup committee. The ban appears not only to have been lifted but given an altitude test.

Big Bill's rush to the rescue is made possible, too, by the action of Col. Jack Wheeler, the syndicate magnate, in letting Bill out of certain writing contracts during the matches, and, if America wins, the sports editors should see that Mr. Wheeler is credited with an assist.

The Seventy-first Congress passed a grand total of 927 new laws. Don't say you weren't notified.

Two aviators are now trying to stay in the air over New York until Labor Day. Here's trusting they will remember to exchange greetings with the tree sitters, bicycle endurance grind contestants and Flagpole Kelly.

Gold-plated doorknobs costing $150,000 are to be put into the new Waldorf-Astoria. This confirms reports of economy in the construction.

Still, a lot of people will be disappointed if there are no mother-of-pearl bathtubs with lapis lazuli gadgets in the $4 rooms.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Member of New York State George Washington Bicentennial Celebration Commission Advocates the Restoration of Yorktown Battleground in Virginia.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It has occured to me that the name of Gen. George Washington should be commemorated on the battleground at Yorktown, in the State of Virginia. On this spot Lord Cornwallis, commander of the British and Hessian troops, surrendered to Gen. Washington, Gen. Lafayette and the American and French troops. On this same spot the independence of the United States of America was established in fact. I examined the battlefield at Yorktown two months ago, and to my utter surprise not one mark or symbol or even a trace or hint of the battleground was preserved to show where the battle was fought or the surrender took place—only abandoned land, growing up with bushes, trees and weeds.

The only appreciation by Congress on behalf of the Nation is the marble monument (erected 1830) near the battlefield; yet Congress has spent millions to commemorate the valor of other American soldiers and sailors in other wars. Take, for instance, the hundreds of monuments and markers on the battlefield of Gettysburg. The various States have appropriated thousands of dollars to preserve battle grounds of various wars. Only last year the State of New York appropriated $500,000 to purchase and preserve the battleground of Saratoga.

I think the most fitting celebration and lasting memorial to the immortal name of Gen. George Washington is for Congress and all of the States to appropriate $5,000,000 between them and purchase the battleground at Yorktown in the State of Virginia, and to erect in marble an exact replica of the positions of the various State and volunteer troops and French troops and sailors on the American side under the command of Gen. Washington, Gen. Lafayette and Admiral De Grosse, of the French Navy; also the position of the British and Hessian troops under the command of Lord Cornwallis. Also place a marble temple at the very spot where Lord Cornwallis surrendered and offered his sword, which Gen. Washington as a hero, refused to accept. I am sure if this sacred spot is dedicated to the birth of the Father of Our Country it will be a shrine on American soil and an inspiration to inculcate American valor in our future American youths to ever defend and preserve our free American Republic, the United States of America.

Anthracite Agreement Not a Criterion for Action in the Bituminous Field.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: An editorial "The Anthracite Pact," which appeared in Sunday's Post, states: "Although the new anthracite contract marks an epoch in industrial history, its negotiation is an example that should be followed by the bituminous industry."

In what way does the contract referred to mark an epoch? Is it not merely another anthracite agreement? And in what way is it an example that should be followed by the bituminous industry? Labor in the anthracite region is 100 per cent union, while by far the greater part of the bituminous industry is operated non-union or open shop. Moreover, in labor negotiations the anthracite operators work together as a unit and under similar conditions; in the bituminous fields there is no such unanimity among the operators, and working conditions vary considerably as between States and between producing districts in each State. All of the bituminous coal used in Washington, coming from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, is mined under non-union or open shop labor conditions.

Labor (and other operating conditions) in the bituminous coal industry are so different from those obtaining in the production of anthracite that any action taken in one industry can not be held up as an example to be followed by the other.

Misleading Propaganda Spread Before Americans Regarding Backward Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Give a dog a bad name and kill him." Great Britian, France and Italy, threatening Abyssinia from all sides with demands which sent Ras Tafari in a panic to the League of Nations, are industriously blackening the name of that sovereignty against the day they hope to strike, unchallenged by a world rendered indifferent.

Capt. Owen Tweedy, of the British Army, aide to Ras Tafari on his visit to Cairo, rewards a personal acquaintance with the monarch by pouring contempt upon his kingdom, its past, present and future, in a magazine article for American readers.

The wife of Sir John Simon, in a book ostensibly about slavery throughout the world, concentrates upon Abyssinia unmeasured accusations of that dark crime, with a body of fact insufficient to support them.

Another, writing as a Frenchman in syndicated articles for America, ransacks the Abyssinian realm for slavery, concealing in the hue and cry the fact that the crime almost totally eludes him.

So continues the miseducation concerning the alien races which has been ours since school and Sunday school days to serve the empires of Europe.

Tokyo Post Also Given Mr. Ferrara

Cuban Ambassador Will Represent Country In Far East.

AN interesting piece of news was received in Washington yesterday from Cuba, which announced that the Cuban Ambassador, Senor Don Orestes Ferrara, had received new honors from his government in his appointment as Cuban Minister to Japan.

Senor Ferrara, who is now in Europe with Senora Ferrara, will go to Japan in the early fall after attending the forthcoming session of the League of Nations in Geneva. It is understood that the ambassador will leave a charge d'affaires in Tokyo and will return to Washington from there.

It is quite the usual thing for an envoy in Washington to be accredited to another country nearby, or even in the same hemisphere, but for an ambassador to have a second post so far away is more extraordinary.

The Austrian Minister, Mr. Edgar Prochnik, has recently been appointed Minister to Mexico, and with his family will leave for Mexico City the first of August. Mr. Prochnik will assume the responsibilities of being envoy to three countries when he presents his credentials to President Ortiz Rubio next month, as he is also Austrian Minister to Cuba in addition to his duties in Washington. Mr. Tytus Felipowicz, Ambassador of Poland, also is accredited to Mexico.

Others of the Washington Diplomatic Corps who serve as envoy to two posts are the Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, who represents his country both here and in Cuba; the Swiss Minister, Mr. Marc Peter, who serves here and in Havana; the Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. J. H. van Royen, also Minister to Cuba, and the Czechoslovakian Minister, Dr. Ferdinand Veverka, another envoy to the United States and also to Cuba. The dean of ministers, Viscount d'Alte, has for many years been accredited to both posts also.

Announcements have been received in Washington of the marriage of Miss Laura Caton Towne, daughter of Mrs. Holabird Towne, to Lieut. Comdr. Charles Baltimore Calvert Carey, on Tuesday, July 22, in St. John's Church.

The engagement of Miss Towne and Commander Carey was announced last August, shortly after the latter had sailed for sea duty with the Asiatic squadron in China. The plans were then that the marriage would take place in December in Manila. But last fall Commander Carey returned to Washington on sick leave, and no further date had been set for the wedding.

Commander Carey is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy class of 1914, and before he left Washington last summer had been aid at the White House.

The Townes are originally from Chicago, though they have made their home in Washington for several years. Miss Towne was at the time of her engagement second vice president of the Junior League, which position she resigned when she planned to leave Washington.

Mrs. Frank Barrows Freyer, wife of Capt. Freyer, U. S. N., has taken a house at Swampscott, Mass., for the summer, and is there with her daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer. Capt. MERGER OPPONENTS CHALLENGE PROXIES

Estate Trustee Denies Lease Was Connected With Voting of Steel Shares.

COURT CLERKS TESTIFY

Youngstown, Ohio, July 24 (A.P.).—Opponents to the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation in court today probed alleged considerations involved when proxies were given for stock to be voted in favor of the merger at the meeting of stockholders last April 8.

The proxy upon which they spent most time was that given by the John Stambaugh estate for more than 12,000 shares at about the same time that the Youngstown company signed a three-year lease on offices in the Stambaugh Building, owned by the estate.

William B. Hall, trustee of the estate, denied on the stand that the lease had anything to do with the proxy. He also denied any discussion with President Eugene G. Grace, of the Bethlehem Corporation in connection with the lease. Elton Hoyt 2d, partner in Pickands, Mather & Co., Cleveland ore firm, was a witness for the second time during the day when attorneys for the Cyrus S. Eaton interests, the merger foes, called him to relate a discussion pertaining to occupancy of the Stambaugh Building by the Youngstown company, which he said took place between Mr. Grace and John Stambaugh, jr., in the presence of Mr. Hall.

Another witness was Carl W. Ullman, who testified that 71,058 shares held by the Dollar Savings & Trust Bank were voted in favor of merger ratification on motion of James A. Campbell, a member of the bank's executive committee. Mr. Campbell is chairman of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Several deputy clerks of probate courts were on the stand to identify wills and other documents concerning proxies given by fiduciaries. The Eaton attorneys in challenging the legality of this class of proxies charged that fiduciaries needed permission of probate court to give the proxies.

John Rodgers, deputy clerk of Mahoning County Probate Court, testified that in 30 years of service he never heard of a will executor asking permission to vote stock held in trust.

STREET CARS REPORT INCREASE IN INCOME

tokens for 7½ cents when they buy four for 30 cents.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. reported something under 3 per cent as the increase in its revenues on Wednesday as compared with Wednesday of the corresponding week of last year. Details showing the ratio of tokens to cash fares were not available, nor were figures showing the number of revenue passengers carried.

The companies made public the figures on request but discounted their importance as indicating what will be the result of the 10 cents cash fares with four tokens for 30 cents. Little of significance along this line will be developed until the new fares have been in effect for some weeks, they said.

Public Utilities Commission accountants, however, are preparing to keep a close check on the flow of traffic on the street car line and Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary of the commission, is preparing a chart which will show a comparison of revenues passengers carried each month this year and last year. Commission experts believe that the first month will see the beginning of a sharp acceleration in the decline of number of passengers carried by both lines.

Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, expects to file with the commission today or tomorrow morning a brief formally requesting an immediate revaluation of the car companies. In the meantime, both Mr. Keech and Vernon L. West, acting corporation counsel, acting for the commission, are preparing an appeal to the District Court of Appeals from the decision of Justice Jennings Bailey, of the District Supreme Court, ordering the higher fares.

WASHINGTON AIRPORT

11 men who know motors say "ESSO GIVES MORE POWER"

Arrived in time—Captain Carroll, vice-president of the New Washington Airport, has just shot across Washington, through midday traffic, in his ESSO-powered car in time to make an important appointment at the flying field.

"S'long, Sergeant"—He's a pilot among pilots, is Sergeant W. J. DeWald. And an enthusiastic motorist, too. "I'd no more use a substitute for ESSO in my automobile," he says, "than I'd fly an airplane without Stanavo."

EVERYWHERE among air-minded people, the New Washington Airport is known as one of the finest in the East.

Not alone because of its $1,500,000 field and equipment—its vast 109-acre landing field—its two huge hangars—and its restaurant for visitors. But more than these—because of the calibre of its personnel. Men who in 1929 made the astounding record of carrying 17,000 passengers 250,000 miles in the field's seven planes.

These men know motors and the care of motors—both airplane and automobile. To a man, they use ESSO to power their cars. Summing up their individual reasons, Captain Thomas Carroll, vice president of the Airport, says:

"We know automobiles, too—and, in our private cars all of us have found that ESSO gives greater power, less knocking and the best all-round performance."

What more could be said than that—by what greater authority!

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW JERSEY

Let her spin—J. O. Thomasan, Chief Mechanic at the Washington Airport, "eats, drinks and sleeps" motors. He should know something about gasoline. Listen to what he says: "I like power—and, to get it in my car, I use nothing but ESSO."

Here they are—most of the crew of the New Washington Airport, every one of whom uses ESSO in his automobile. Top row, left to right: M. C. Crowder, assistant manager; Sergeant W. J. DeWald, pilot; P. J. Rabbitt, manager; Lt. Floyd L. Cox, pilot. Bottom row: Albert Herrell, mechanic; J. O. Thomasan, chief mechanic; C. M. Belinn, mechanic; H. Harrison, dispatcher; C. A. Macatee, 3rd dispatcher; E. F. Sheffield, mechanic.

1000 motorists picked at random in Washington traffic were asked, "What motor fuel do you use?" 345 replied, "ESSO," like this charming young motorist interviewed at Union Station.

DERBY AT HOUSTON, GEHLBACH LEADING

Hamer Forced Down on Hop From Little Rock to Texas.

SAN ANGELO FOR TODAY

Municipal Airport, Houston, Tex., July 24 (A.P.).—Eleven of twelve planes in the all-American air derby which sped away from Little Rock, Ark., this morning checked in here late today, paced by Lieut. Lee Gehlbach, of Little Rock.

Lieut. Gehlbach was far ahead of the field with elapsed time of 3:01:34 from Little Rock and a total unofficial elapsed time of 15:22:32.

Lieut. Gehlbach won $500 of the $1,000 lap prize offered here. Stub Quinby, of Moline, Ill., took second money of $300, and J. R. Wedell, of New Orleans, the $200 third award.

"Burning Up Sky."

The craft which failed to arrive was that of Herman Hamer, of Chicago, who was forced down, the officials were advised, at Hankamer, Liberty County, Tex. It was believed lack of fuel brought him to earth as he sent word that he needed a mechanic and some gasoline.

The waspish little rocket piloted by Lieut. Gehlbach came tearing over the finish line so rapidly that the number on the side hardly could be read. It was checked in at 12:05:34 p. m. Mr. Quinby's little ship was next in.

Mr. Wedell arrived some five minutes behind Mr. Quinby at 12:13:55. The leaders said they had sighted the unfortunate Mr. Hamer earlier in the day and that he was "burning up the sky."

Race Resumes Today.

The planes will take up the race again beginning at 9 a. m. tomorrow. San Angelo, Tex., is the next control point.

Cecil Coffrin, who looked excessively weary on his arrival, saying he had not kept a complete log book, waved a hand, smiled and said, "I've been flying for two days and nights." He fell behind early in the race.

Lee Schoenhair, referee, had no information about two or three other planes which were among the starters at Detroit, beginning point of the race, but pointed out that regardless of their status they were too far back to affect the outcome.

BABY AND COUPLE VANISH IN CHICAGO

day in the Englewood Hospital, decreed today, with one dissenting vote, that the infants had been switched and are in the hands of the wrong parents. Two of the 13 did not vote.

The verdict brought joy to one father, William Watkins, who has felt certain he had the wrong heir, and defiance from the other—Bamberger—who believed he had the right son all along.

"I won't give up the baby I have," Bamberger said. "I'll barricade my house and hire a lawyer to help me fight to keep my baby."

Both mothers were in a state of collapse. Mrs. Bamberger was too ill to leave her home to attend the conference and she kept the infant she has been mothering as hers close by her side. Mrs. Watkins alternately walked the floor or sat huddled in a chair outside the health commissioner's office, where the scientists, doctors and lawyers were debating whether the child in her arms was hers. When informed they had decided that it was not, she became semihysterical.

Both fathers attended the conference. Toward the end, as the evidence showed what the outcome would be, Bamberger, pale and trembling, left the room. He did not return for the vote.

When the poll was taken and Watkins found himself the father of a baby he had seen only a few times, he gripped the arms of the chair tightly.

After a moment's silence Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner, asked:

"Will you accept the decision?"

"Yes, I have felt all along that the babies were mixed."

It was Watkins, who, when helping to bathe the baby he and his wife had brought home from the hospital, had discovered adhesive tape, labeled "Bamberger," on its back. Tape found to have been on the infant in the Bamberger's crib read "Watkins."

"I'll force the Bambergers to give us our baby," Watkins said as the savants filed out.

Previously the parents had agreed to accept the decision of the jury, though its report is not compulsory, but Bamberger showed fight when later informed of the decree.

Later, when the health commissioner went to the Bamberger home to advise that the decision of the investigators be abided by, he found that Mr. and Mrs. Bamberger had departed with the baby that had been awarded to the Watkinses.

FARMERS IN VIRGINIA FACE CROP FAILURE

Federal-State Report Says Yield in Danger Unless Rain Comes Soon.

HAY PRODUCTION LIGHT

Richmond, Va., July 24 (A.P.).—The lack of rain in Virginia will result in crop failures and near-failures throughout the State unless relief comes soon, says the semimonthly report of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service issued by John A. Hicks, agricultural statistician.

With the exception of small areas, crops made little progress during the last fifteen days, said the report. Insufficient soil moisture, extremely hot weather and drying winds have seriously curtailed all crops. Wells and small streams in many localities are virtually dry.

The best crop conditions in the State were reported to the service from eastern and southern counties, where the early drought was somewhat checked by local rains in June and early July, although these counties are now quite dry.

Farm Gardens Injured.

Some localities, especially in the northern and southwestern counties, have had practically no rain since late April. Farm gardens have been injured in all sections of the State.

The principal farm work reported during the first half of July was threshing wheat, harvesting hay and cultivating corn, tobacco, cotton and peanuts. All such work made favorable progress, especially that of threshing, since the lack of rainfall and prevailing warm weather served to dry the grain rapidly. The yield of wheat was heavier than had been estimated before threshing, and its quality was reported as good.

Although corn was well worked and made favorable progress prior to July 1, since that time the crop has deteriorated rapidly, said the report.

Tobacco, usually drought-resistant, has begun to suffer from the lack of moisture. This crop, however, had made such strides before the dryness began that an average crop was predicted if rains come immediately and the season continue favorable.

Hay Crop Lightest Ever.

Virginia's hay crop is one of the lightest ever grown in the State. Spring seeded grasses and clover were damaged by the drought to such an extent that many fields were plowed and planted to other crops, while those left standing were almost complete failures.

The greater part of the early potato crop has been shipped. While the acreage was larger than last year, the crop was less as a result of poor yields in the commercial producing sections.

Peanuts are backward in growth, but generally the appearance of the crop was said to be good. Fields were well cultivated and the crop was cleaner of grass than usual.

Owing to the poor condition of pastures, cattle have made little progress.

Segrave's Estate $82,000.

London, July 24 (A.P.).—The estate of the late Sir Henry Segrave, who lost his life when his power boat, Miss England II, upset in Lake Windermere last month, was $82,000, it was announced today.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

Time: All-Hallows Eve.
Place: Lady Court, an old manor house south of Washington.
Cast of Characters.

Lindy Marsden, lonely, lovely, a dark-eyed romanticist, and mistress of Lady Court.

Doug King, hilarious and jovial, the life of every party and the founder of the March Hares.

Neil Sheridan, sleek, dark, highly successful in his career as a lawyer and husband of Trudi, wise, witty and chic, with all the ease of manner of a grand duchess and the lack of manners of a fish wife.

Chatty Ross, small, gay, blindly adoring wife of Tom Ross, the least successful man in the room, shabby and sensitive among his wealthy friends.

Hanna Dart, a gentle lady, immaculately beautiful, whose reserve masks a deep affection for her husband.

Gavin Dart, a rather tired and immensely successful business man of 50, with shrewd, dark eyes and steel-gray hair.

Ray Hardy, the youngest member of the party, not long married and overwhelmingly in love with

Joel Hardy, her charming and irrepressible husband, who has not grown five minutes older in the last ten years.

Jill Leighton, graceful and gracious, stepsister of that legendary Sunny, the beloved girl whose strange death ten years ago still lay like a shadow over the gay group.

Larry Redmond, an agreeable young banker, who can not understand why Jill hates him.

Kit Baird, wanderer and adventurer in strange lands, who in his casual way does every romantic thing marvellously well.

THE STORY THUS FAR.

Thirteen gay revelers, calling themselves The March Hares, have gathered on Halloween at Lady Court, an old manor house. As the party gets under way, some one starts a graphophone. The record is "Underneath the Stars." Sunny's tune, Sunny herself, whom every one loved, having been drowned in Washington.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY.

A MYSTERIOUS END.

"Joel never told me anything about her, except that she was simply lovely," said Ray in a small, subdued voice. "Was she so lovely?"

"Lovely enough to send Joel and Sherry and Doug and Kit and every man within 100 miles of her clean off his head."

Hanna Dart said gently: "We could tell you about her for 100 years, Ray, and not make you see her. No one ever danced like Sunny—no one ever laughed like her or sang like her—when she and Kit waltzed together, every one in the room used to stop to watch them, and then she laughed, it was simply too lovely to be true—"

Ray, a little shiver in her voice, asked desolately: "And she was drowned when she was '9?"

It seemed suddenly strange to be alive, with all that loveliness dead.

"She drowned herself when she was 19," said Trudi, her face abruptly grim and tired.

"Oh, Trudi, no one ever really knew!" murmured Hanna. "She might have fallen—there's an awfully sharp drop just below the falls, isn't there, Lindy?"

Lindy, her face turned to the shadows, said in a voice so low that it was almost lost, "Yes."

"I thought that you had all grown up by now," commented Trudi, ruthless and scornful. "Lindy, do you think she stepped off that nice sharp drop?"

"No," said the small, lost voice.

"There's enough misery about her death without adding to it," commented Trudi trenchantly.

"Was she Jill's younger sister?" inquired Ray, her voice still desolate. It would have been a pleasanter world with Sunny in it.

"She was a year younger, but she wasn't her sister, as a matter of fact. Stepsister—though hardly any one knew it then. Jill idolized her, and I suppose that none of them wanted the ravishing Mrs. Leighton's past affairs explored more than necessary."

An Old Affair.

"I think that a lot of that may have been very unfair gossip," murmured Hanna, her lovely, tranquil eyes vaguely concerned.

"Gossip my eye! It wasn't gossip that Jill's real name was Cavendish, and that Mrs. Cavendish ran off to South America with an Englishman called Leighton with Jill tucked under her arm when the wretched mite was 6 months old, was it?

"It wasn't gossip that young Cavendish blew out his brains and left her free to marry Leighton, was it? It wasn't gossip that Leighton was killed in a railroad accident; that when Cavendish's old father died he left every cent of his fortune to Jill, and that Sunny and Mrs. Leighton were as dependent on Jill as though they were paupers? That wasn't gossip, was it?"

"No," said Lindy, from the shadows. "That wasn't gossip."

"But I'll wager that every one in Washington but Lindy thought that Sunny was Jill's own sister till they dug all this up at the inquest. I know that I did, and I," confessed Mrs. Sheridan, "am not one of these little Japanese monkeys that speak no evil, hear no evil and see no evil. If any gossip is flying around I'm crouched right in the vicinity, all ready to sink my teeth in it and worry it like a bone.

"Now, if it's all right with you, Ray, and seeing as how this is supposed to be a bright, giddy, hilarious reunion, suppose we pass lightly on to another topic? Such as what in hades is keeping those brave lads out there with their treasure trove, and how cold you have to get before you lose all sensation and the robins begin to cover you up?"

"I see them!" announced Chatty triumphantly, her snub nose pressed against the window pane. "They're just coming around the corner—mercy, they've brought the woodpile with them! Listen, they're singing——"

Faint and far off came the lusty chorus, and Trudi cocked an attentive ear.

Before Dinner.

"When I walks dat levee round, round, round, round," hummed Trudi, deeply and reminiscently. "When I walks dat levee round, round, round——"

Her brief skirts swung free and wide as her swaggering strut circled wider—wider—the chorus outside was almost on her heels—

"When I walks dat levee round,
I'm lookin' for dat bully,
And he mus' be found!"

They were in the room, with the wind at their heels, stamping; mightily in her circling wake, drowning out her lighter voice, prancing, exultant, crimson-faced, the frosty air still in their eyes.

"When I walks dat levee round, round, round, round."

"Come along, girls—step lively, there, Ray—everybody in high, wide and fancy does it——"

"When I walks dat levee round——"

Ray lifted her voice valiantly, stamping and shouting with the best of them.

New Discoveries.

"I'm looking for dat bully and he can't be found. . . ."

"Jill Leighton, whatever in the world—here, give her a hand, Doug! What in the world is it?"

"It's the tub—for the apples!" Jill was as rosy and breathless as any of them. "I found it in the telephone closet under the stairs—all the Halloween things are there; the flour for the ring, and the mirror and the candles—Lindy, it's going to take simply buckets to fill this thing."

"Oh, Kit!" cried Chatty exultantly. "I found your guitar—it still has the red ribbons on it—look. Let's have one song before we get ready for supper, Lindy——Lindy, can't we?"

"Oh, let's have two; that's inspiration. Want matches, Kit?"

The fire builder, from his knees on the hearth, shook his head.

"Thanks; I'm amply provided with everything, apparently, including a guitar. There—is that the best fire since the little affair in Chicago, or isn't it?"

"It is, it is—quick, some one—turn off the lights. Cushions, every one! Kit?"

In the friendly darkness a voice at Jill Leighton's elbow asked quietly: "Another cushion, Jill?"

She turned her face from the direction from which it came, saying in a voice so low that it was barely audible:

"No." After a long moment she spoke again, lower still. "Larry, if I had known that you were going to be here I should never have come."

The man spoke quietly.

"I know. That's why I told Jill that I wasn't coming."

Across the room some one called impatiently, "Got the guitar, Kit?"

A Song Fete.

The guitar itself answered, a small silvery plaint at the touch of fingers long forgotten.

"Gosh, that's terrible! Hold everything while I have another go at it. How's that, Joel?"

Ah!" fretted the guitar softly. "Ah! Ah-h!"

"Filthy," pronounced Joel judicially. "Worse than that. Don't pay any attention to it—it sounds to me as though it were doing it on purpose. Let's have 'The Policeman's Child.'"

"No, I want 'The Drunkard's remorse!'"

The fire, leaping, soaring, dancing in the great chimney, lit up the ring of faces, flushed with warmth, with laughter, with memory, suddenly joyous.

"Oh, Kit, the one about 'The Jack of Diamonds.'"

"All in good time," said the red-headed young man, "in good time, if and when you behave yourselves. In the meantime, peace and be still. Want your song, Lindy?"

"Yes, please," said a shadowy voice from the shadows.

"All right—catch!" He leaned his head against the corner of the mantel and lifted his voice—a voice as effortless, as careless, as haunting as the tune, drifting up across the years and the mountains to ring once more through Lindy's room.

Down in the valley,
The valley below—
Lean your head over,
Hear the wind below——

From what far hills did it come, the little song. What far-off girl had bent her head at its behest?

If you don't love me,
Love whom you please.
Put your arms 'round me,
Give my heart ease——

Against the coolness of the marble his hair burned like bright coals, his eyes like dark ones.

Put your arms 'round me—
Ere it's too late—
Put your arms 'round me,
Feel my heart break.

Feel it break, feel it break, sang the guitar, all the forlorn gallantry in the world turning its silvery mockery to tears.

Roses are red, dear, sang Kit Baird, his eyes on those far off hills:

Violets are blue—
Angels in heaven
Know I love you—

Know I love you dear,
Know I love you—
Angels in heaven
Know—I—love—you——

It drifted off as lightly and aimlessly as it had come, leaving not even an echo behind it in the great room, but in the leaping circle of the flames no other voice was lifted—no finger stirred, as though those who listened were loath to have it go. It was the singer who broke the spell.

"That's that!" he said briefly, swinging to his feet. "The rest will keep till after supper; they've kept ten years. Are we dressing, Lindy?"

"Of course we're dressing," said Trudi sternly. "How is any one going to know what perfectly divine clothes we've got if we don't dress? The March Hares never go native, and I've got a lacquer red brocade dinner dress in that bag that is calculated to make strong men shriek and clutch at their hearts."

"To Quarters."

"Me, too," concurred Chatty blithely. "Only mine are going to shriek with horror and surprise. Outside of the fact that it isn't red and isn't brocade and that it looks more like a bungalow apron than a dinner dress, it's a perfectly lovely little affair. I can't wait to get into it."

If she had turned her curly head an inch she would have encountered soemthing in the tense whiteness of Tom's face that would have given her pause; but it was Trudi who turned—all then averted her eyes quickly as though she had cheated.

"Oh, you've got curly hair," she replied, swiftly careless. "If I had curly hair I'd slip into the eldest child's rompers, tie a blue sash around my tummy and let it go at that. Your nose turns up, too. Some people in this vale of tears have all the luck! Come on, Sheridan, if some one doesn't get started we'll be drifting back in time for a nice late breakfast. Where do we go, Lindy?"

"East India room. You have the Half Moon, Doug. Joel and Ray in the Cubby Hole and the Darts in Seventh Heaven. Kit, you and Larry have the Ghost's Walk, because I don't dare put anyone else in it. That's all of us, isn't it?

"Oh, Lindy, are you taking the priest's room?" Chattys guileless voice lifted in amazement. "That's always been Jills and——"

"I know—I'm being selfish." Lindy's soft serenity bridged the stricken pause. "I've always coveted it, and I'm too old now to be a perfect hostess. Jill has Journey's End. Help me with this bag, will you, Doug? Coming, Kit?"

"As soon as I get this built up. My professional pride isn't satisfied; by the time you sybarites get back you'll be needing ice packs and palm-leaf fans." He knelt on the hearth, flinging a last smile over his shoulder into the jubilant tumult that was dissolving itself into a confusion of racing footsteps, slamming doors and receding clamors.

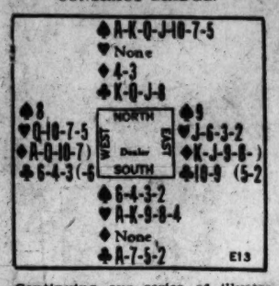
WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.



Continuing our series of illustrations of sensational and yet sound Goulash slam bidding, we examine today the following hand:

South started by bidding one Heart on a hand which presented no great abnormality. West ventured two Diamonds, and North jumped at once to four Spades. East passed; he had plenty of Diamonds but too many side losers. South, with four baby Spades, no Diamonds, the Ace of Clubs and the high Hearts he had announced by his first bid, felt justified in bidding for a slam in Spades, but thought it better to approach by informatory degrees; so South bid five Clubs.

After North's unnecessary jump to a game-bid in Spades, South's bid showed the Club Ace and not length or strength in Clubs; besides, South could not possibly want to play with a five-Club contract when he had started with a bid of only one Heart. West passed the five Clubs; and North bid five Spades, that contract being fully assured unless a Club should be ruffed by the enemy. North did not venture a small slam with two losing Diamonds in his hand as West's bid made it practically certain that a Diamond would be led.

East passed; and South now sprang his sensation by bidding six Diamonds. West passed; and North did not care whether South's bid meant the Ace of Diamonds solus or no Diamonds. The grand slam seemed to be assured without the use of South's Hearts; so North, instead of making the six-Spade bid which South expected, jumped to a perfectly conservative seven Spades. An examination of the hand discloses that the grand slam was nothing but a show-down regardless of the lead selected by East.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A delightful white crepe dress with simple and gracious silhouette. (Courtesy of Drecoll Beer, Paris).

Paris, July 24.

So the Queen passed through Vienna on her way to her own country! What Queen? Well, the lovely and courageous one, Queen Marie—whose head is bloody but unbowed, if I am permitted to use this expression.

And, "she was wearing ropes upon ropes of pearls around her neck, and even a pearl stringed coiffeur cap to keep her hair waved." If we are to believe an American newspaper edited in Paris.

Don't tell me! How could you, Queen! Polls, probably real ones at that, polls and polls, while traveling? And, oh dearie me, not to mention the cap—better not.

Well, that's the first time I ever heard of a Queen showing poor taste, 'specially you, my favorite queen. Now aren't you 'shamed of yourself when poor little fashun crickets like me work ourselves to the bone, (Didja ever have any bones?") ask El Sec Gallant, the houn!) trying to teach lovely but maybe dumb ladies how to dress, how to be elegant and wear the right thing at the right time—and here you go and wear "ropes 'n' ropes of pearls, while you are traveling.

Don't you know that even if you are a queen and entitled to some excentricities of dress that we wolkin' goils can't indulge in, that you shouldn't? Because millyuns and millyuns of women the world over look to you as a model of good taste, and will you do what you do just because you do it. It's an awful responsibility being the nicest and mos' interesting queen in the world, now isn't it? But you are that and I wish the next time you start winding ropes 'n' ropes of pearls around your classic neck, you would give a thought to all the damage it is going to do.

• • • •

At that, I bet you weren't wound up in pearls on a train at all, but a mere man reporter just could remember how dazzling you were, and couldn't resist painting the lily with antedated ideas of how he thought or read about how Queens are decked out—in books.

• • • •

Speaking queenishly, the Drecoll-Beer dress I have sketched for you today was quite so. White crepe de chine, simple trimming of hemstitching, lovely and gracious lines—Um!

• • • •

And just to show you that wood can be used other than to make heads (whaddya mean, I'm so fat yuh can't see my bones!) How about that for a bag? Smart, what? Black, and wood incrusted! Yes, it honestly is wood, fine thin slabs of wood put on the bag as trimming, or incrustations.

• • • •

Is the slender waist which the poet boasted of being able to encircle with his ten finger coming into its own again? I guess not! But we don't care if clever dress designers give us the appearance of such a waist, by the cut of the new silhouettes, now do we? For that they are doing, in many a new afternoon or evening gown. We would do well to indulge in some bending and twisting exercises, but don't rush out grandmother's whalebones, now will you!

• • • •

You don't know how to be charming around the house until you have owned one of those three-piece Chinese pajama suits! Give hubby a surprise one of these evenings after dinner, when the kiddies are all tucked in and the dishes done—take a couple of hours for mother, even if you have to spend them darning wee socks—darn 'em all dressed up in one of these colorful little house suits!

'N' they are not expensive at all, when you can make them yourself! Oh yes, if you send a stamped, self-addressed envelop to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that tells you how to go about it!

• • • •

Then look for the weekly Dare fashion letter in each Sunday's Washington Post.

A Goofus Sea Story

I never see a Goofus Gull
Sitting on a wave,
But I wink at myself and say:
"That birdie's not so brave."
I think if I were built like him,
I'd also stay at sea;
And let each passing vessel bring
Its share of food to me!

HOW TO DETACH IVY FROM A WALL.

I HOPE that you will not want to remove an ivy, but you may have to at some time. Under ordinary circumstances I can not imagine any one's ever wanting to remove anything so beautiful. But I realize that there may come a time when, because of certain necessary repairs or building operations, a well-developed ivy must be taken down. Or again, a vine may die, which also leads to its removal.

The removal of an English ivy always presents a real problem, because this vine has an unusually heavy growth and very tenacious tendrils, which refuse to let go their hold. The only way to get rid of this variety of ivy is to have the wall scraped, which is a long, tedious operation.

In this country nine-tenths of all the ivy we see on churches and houses is the common Boston ivy, Ampelopiss veitchii. This variety, though not an evergreen, is beautiful at all seasons. Its tendrils are small, and while they hold the ivy to the wall, you can, with little effort, remove the vine and leave an absolutely clean surface. Indeed you would be quite unable to detect the fact that the wall had ever been covered.

Builders realize this as an advantage, and frequently start a Boston ivy about a new house before it is occupied. Yet many inexperienced people spend hours and days attempting to remove one of these vines from even a small area of the wall, when the same work should take no more than a half-hour. All that is necessary, not matter how large the vine may be or how many years it has expended in developing growth, is to cut off the main stem close to the roots.

You usually have to do this cutting with a hatchet, as the stems are quite woody, and the ordinary pruning shears will have little effect on them. After the stems have been severed from the roots, take a pole and pry them away from the wall to a height of 3 feet. When you have done this, grasp the end of one of the stems and, walking rapidly backward, with little effort, remove the entire growth of the particular stem you are carrying.

Repeat this process; each time carrying a stem. There are usually only two main branches; sometimes, however, there may be three or four.

This is the method all landscape men use, and it is certainly better than the one most amateurs adopt. Amateurs usually use ladders, and begin removing the smallest, highest tendrils first; or else they depend on leaning from windows, removing a little here and a little there. As a result, the work is neither well nor neatly done. The victims of the latter method vow they will never plant an ivy vine again.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF JULY 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., 6 p. m. to 7 p. m., and 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

The signs on this date indicate there should be "a feast of reason, a flow of soul"—the best that is in you will yearn for expression. All may not be smooth sailing, however, and impediments may mark the eleventh hour.

The child born on this date will be of a domestic temperament, affectionate, bright and cheerful. It will develop into a most capable person, who will win through its determination and energy. It will readily make friends.

Your famine-like crop of "wild oats" will be sown, if at all, at an early age. You soon will shed your vain illusions, and will bury many of your false gods. You never will be tempted or trapped by the tinsel and mock jewels of life. Nature will be your teacher, and from her you will learn your real values.

The lilt of a thrush, the sleepy chitter of birds at evening, or the blush of a wild rose, will mean more to you every year. The artificialities, after which many people chase in vain quest of happiness, will mean less and less to you as the years advance.

Your life is not a mimicry; you are more of an individualist than are most people. Your thoughts are not always some one else's opinions redished to the public as your own. You do not talk about things about which you know nothing. There is so little of the hypocrite or the snob about you that you are almost a hundred per cent sincere.

Your straight from the shoulder, face to face, thrusts are so much better than jabs in the back. You have your choice selection of friends who "speak your own language," but universally, you love everybody. You never seek the shadowy lanes of life. You are neither a slave to your work nor under the dominance of your pleasures.

Successful people born July 25:

2—Maxfield Parish, artist.
3—Lord Balfour, English statesman.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The Esthetic and the Child.

DEAR Miss McDonald: I can not understand how you, an intelligent woman, can make such an absurd statement to the effect that children not born of "love" will turn out to be morally and physically ugly, liars, cheats, &c. How can you believe in such a foolish superstition. As if any influence whatever, except that of nutrition, could alter the fate of a child. Nature cares only that the life germ be developed. Nature cares not how. Certainly the various royal offspring of state marriages, as little Prince Carol, for instance, are not all poor specimens. Neither are all illegitimate children models of perfection. Why do you think that a woman who marries without love is doing her husband an injury? He obtains what he desires, doesn't he? The only injury, if any, that is perpetrated is to herself alone.

Love does not enter into the arranged marriages which take place on the continent, and yet the parties get along happily enough. Why don't you advise your troubled correspondent to look up Mendel's laws on heredity? It is possible that her child, if she has one, will turn out to resemble in its mental and physical qualities some dead and gone great-grandparent, who, no doubt, was born of a "love" marriage.

LUCRETIA.

My dear girl, like most amateur scientists, you have your labels mixed. You also are a careless reader and reckless quoter—both very unscientific characteristics, indeed.

All that you say is true with regard to bone structure, physique and organic make-up. But it just happens that there is more to the making of a human being than bone structure and physique, although the average human in action might cause any observer to doubt this undeniable fact. We think in terms of the physical. But there is more to it than that. We are made of sixteen chemicals. So simple. But no one has yet discovered the "what else" that makes the sixteen familiar chemicals live and laugh and suffer, and then die a human.

You say it makes no difference to "nature" what the circumstances under which a human being comes into being. What scientist told you that?

When Dorothy Ellingson, a handsome, well-built, strong and gifted girl of 16, coolly shot her mother because she was "tired of listening to her complainings," and then robbed the body and started out to really enjoy life, society started to study Dorothy. She was sent to a State hospital for the insane. But in 60 days, after close observation, she was discharged as 100 per cent sane and placed on trial for murder. Then scientists flocked to her defense.

There were plenty of explanations for the strange behaviorisms, mysterious to the layman, familiar as A, B, C, to the scientist. Dorothy Ellingson was explained by eminent men as one of those cases where it made a great deal of difference to "nature." A very great deal of difference indeed.

Human behavior is the sum total of the conflict between reason and emotion. The spiritual and emotional factors in consideration of humans can never be dismissed until science discovers for us that "what else" that makes the lime and phosphorus, and iron and potassium think and feel—and die.

Prenatal effort can not affect the unborn any more than shocks or frights suffered by the mother can disfigure her child. We made no such foolish assertion. What we did say was that, "children born of greed and hate and strife are the children you see fighting, lying, stealing, forging checks and betraying trust." Do not take our word for it. Read up on the subject.

Again you disagree that any injustice is done a man, when he marries believing himself to be loved, when in reality, the woman does not even like him. That is because, in common with many other women, you do not credit man with any of the spiritual qualities that are common to both sexes. Men crave affection and its expression just as women do, and it is betrayal of trust and an ugly crime to condemn a man to a loveless existence for life, or force him to the alternative of seeking love outside his home.

As for Mendel. Even he would probably agree that a beautiful human being was a permanent monument to a moment of perfect harmony, an expression presented to the eye as a symphony is presented to the ear.

We are sixteen well-known chemicals—plus. Very much plus. And our emotions, our inspirations, the beauty or the horror that shines out from within us all depends upon the plus.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

PROHIBITION AND DRUGS.

J. C. F. writes: A relative (as the result of prohibition) has become an addict of veronal, which is far worse than chronic alcoholism and for which the physicians say there is no cure. This tablet has the same effects and the same results as any narcotic which is unlawful to sell, but the tablet can be purchased easily at any drug store. The patient will go to the same extremes as any dope fiend in order to secure and when on a spree with it is very violent and dangerous, requiring a constant attendant. Why does the Government allow the sale of this body and mind destroying drug? can the makers be sued for damages?

REPLY.

There is no evidnece that addiction to this drug is any more prevalent or harmful now than before prohibition. Of course it should come under the Harrison act, as you say. The same could be said of some other drugs. But why is your faith in this act greater than your faith in the prohibition act? The principles involved are the same as regard all habit-forming drugs, including alcohol, opiates, and the barbital group.

USE FRUITS AND WATER.

G. P. writes: A recent urinalysis showed excessive acidity (70 degrees), 2 hyaline casts, and uric acid crystals. I am not a heavy eater. Have meat twice a week. I do not know what causes this condition. I am a man, 56 years of age, active and feel healthy.

REPLY.

I expect you eat freely of crackers, cereals, breads and pastries. If you want to change the reaction, eat more fruits and vegetables, and drink more water.

PAIN NEAR THE CHEST.

J. W. P. writes: You wrote Mrs. E. R. that pain in the heart region was usually neuralgia or rheumatism of the chest muscles and did not mean heart disease. You are absolutely right. I had such a pain and I thought it was heart disease. My doctor had me put on a porous plaster. Presto! I was well. Since then I use a porous plaster when I get such a pain.

President Roosevelt refused to accept the resignation of George R. Carter, Governor of Hawaii, today. He told him to return to Hawaii with reassurances that the administration is fully behind him. The governor has had a little trouble since he was appointed to the post.

Four people who attended a birthday party in Philadelphia are dead and nine others are sick after having eaten toadstools which had become mixed with mushrooms served at dinner.

The funeral of Daniel S. Lamont, former Secretary of War, who died at his home at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., will be held tomorrow.

Adolf Cluss, a well known architect, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William H. Daw, 2301 H street northwest, from heat prostration. Interment will be in the Oak Hill Cemetery.

Twelve men were burned to death in an oil field fire at Houston, Tex. The damage will be well over a million dollars.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

FOOD CONTAINERS.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

The choice of proper containers for foods prevents much deterioration and waste. As a general thing each food is kept in its own closed container. Dry foods may be stored in glass, earthenware, metal, wooden or specially treated cardboard or paper containers, depending on how carefully they must be protected from air, light and vermin. For moist and watery foods the choice of containers is more limited, for not only must leakage be prevented, but the effect of acids on some metals must be considered. A container that has no cracks or seams in which dirt or microorganisms may lodge and that can be thoroughly washed and aired before fresh supplies are stored in it is in many cases preferable. Labeling food containers plainly saves time when preparing meals and helps to prevent the wasteful and sometimes harmful accidents that happen when one material is mistaken for another.

The food containers used in the refrigerator should be convenient in size, washable, as light in weight as possible so that undue quantities of ice will not be melted in cooling them to the temperature of the refrigerator, and fitted with covers to prevent the food from drying out and the escape or absorption of odors. In fact, all foods and food materials that are to be used without washing, such as butter, cheese or sugar, should be wrapped or kept in covered receptacles, whether stored in the refrigerator or in the pantry, cellar or any other place.

NATS BOW TO CHISOX, 10-4, FALL 5 GAMES BEHIND LEAD; FRENCH OPENLY PREDICT 2 DAVIS CUP VICTORIES TODAY

Westbrook Pegler Says

OLD Pete Alexander, the well-known horrible example, has just been released by the Dallas Club of the Texas League and he is very sad about it, but do you suppose it ever occurred to Aleck to turn down his glass some time?

This thing has been done by some very good men in various walks of life, but Alexander staggers through a blurry world feeling tremendously sorry for himself all the while and expecting a lot of people who have enjoyed less luck and prosperity to sit down with him on a park bench somewhere and bawl with him forever about the tragedy of it all.

Most of the people who have been reading periodical laments for Grover Alexander at his various passings-out of the game these last few years and feeling sorry for him have worked much harder and with better conscience for much less money than he made, and probably have had much less fun out of life, too.

Had Remedy, but Wouldn't Apply It.

Unquestionably, Aleck has been a very able pitcher and a picturesque character, but, after almost 21 years of pitching, he still believes he would have done much better if he had come up to the leagues with a white ribbon in his lapel and a pledge on his lips. But I suspect that he drew his schnapps from that keg of Gen. Grant's which Lincoln commended to his other generals, for he outlasted Mathewson and Johnson and many other athletes who ate their bran regularly, took 99 deep breaths before the open window on arising and spent spare time perusing the lectures of William Muldoon.

At any rate he had the remedy and inasmuch as he wouldn't apply it, that would seem to me to be just his hard luck.

It is my observation that, as a rule, such people get more chances to make good and have more excuses made for them than the people who work hard and conscientiously.

Drinking Newspaper Men Always Find Jobs.

I have known about fifty newspaper men who were supposed to be masterly writers when sober who never were sober long enough to prove it; yet they bob up year after year in one town or another to hang up their hats and go to work in shops where jobs are supposed to be scarce and less spectacular men with sense of responsibility are out of work. They have a good time, because drinking is fun, and while they are enjoying their balmy state other persons are attending to their jobs with a hope perhaps of becoming slightly plastered over the next week-end, by the way of reward for their diligence.

A few years ago, when old Aleck was with the Cubs, arrangements were made to hold a testimonial show for him on the Cubs' home grounds.

He was to have received a share of the gate receipts and presents of one kind and another which would have had a pawnshop value of several hundred dollars. But the very day the plan was decided upon, Alex was absent from the ball club in Philadelphia and didn't come out of the ether for some time, which conduct so annoyed the management of the firm that the testimonial was called off.

The Cubs and Cardinals permitted him to set his own pace, only asking him to show up for work every so often, but the old gent wouldn't always answer roll call on these occasions and so they had to let him go.

I suppose this is an unfeeling way to discuss the troubles of an aging athlete with no savings and a picturesque habit of going fishing for mud-cat in a flat-bottom boat with a jug under the seat.

Old John L. Won Battle With Booze.

He reminds one of the Old Soak, and it is always argued on behalf of such that their habit is a disease. Yet, John L. Sullivan, a roaring souse for years, was man enough to seize hold of himself after he had lost his title, and even if he did become a professional horrible example and go preaching for prohibition, which was not the square way to do, he at least showed that the cure lay within him. A similar case is that of a remarkable old ball player still holding a regular job with a major league club today, who once kept a square-faced bottle of gin on the bench and stimulated himself with draughts from the same when his side was at bat.

He often fielded his job in a reeling condition, but the customers didn't suspect him because he was given to clowning anyway. At any rate, he, too, suddenly quit drinking and picked up his career again just when he seemed all through.

One day this remarkable athlete popped into a speakeasy near the Pittsburgh ball park, put down a half bottle of gin, had two bottles wrapped

DOWNFALL OF TILDEN AT BOROTRA'S HANDS NOW SEEN PROBABLE

Fans Believe 'Big Bill' Can't Repeat Wimbledon Triumph.

Lott Opposes Cochet; French Also Hopeful in Doubles.

PARIS, July 24 (A.P.).—French tennis fans openly boasted tonight while the native officials agreed with them in less boisterous fashion that the luck of the draw bids fair to bring France two victories in the opening pair of singles matches of the challenge round for the Davis Cup Friday afternoon.

Big Bill Tilden, ace of the United States team, drew Jean Borotra, the bounding Basque, for the opening match, which will start on the courts at the Roland Garros Stadium at 2:15 p. m. George Lott, Chicago youth, who will help the American veteran with the singles burden, faces Henri Cochet, world ranking star, in the second match at 5 p. m. The doubles teams, as yet unnamed, will clash on Saturday with the final singles, Lott against Borotra and Tilden against Cochet, on Sunday afternoon.

While the French are bubbling over with optimism, the American colony feels sure that Tilden's oft-proven supremacy over Borotra—seven consecutive victories on grass and hard courts—will be shown again tomorrow, giving the challengers an even break in victories for the opening day. No one, either French or American, appears to grant Lott a chance against Cochet.

Elated at Borotra's Recent Form.

Four out of five Frenchmen believe that Tilden's spell over Borotra will be broken tomorrow. They point for support to the bounding one's duel with the top ranking American at Wimbledon where Borotra evened the count in sets at 2-all and led in the fifth set four games to two without the advantage of the ten-minute rest which he will get tomorrow if the match goes beyond three sets. Tilden pulled that battle out of the fire, but the French do not believe he can do it again.

Tilden appears to feel heavily the responsibility of his eleventh-hour selection as a member of the American Davis Cup squad. Likewise the morale of the younger members of the team seems hardly to have been improved by the selection of Tilden. Although they openly welcomed Big Bill into the fold the youngsters seem to feel the United States should sink or swim with the youthful element in the 1930 plan.

Wilmer Allison, partner of John Van Ryn in America's first strong doubles combination, made a particularly poor showing in practice today and the shoddy work of the young Texan buoyed the French up to the pitch where they no longer are willing to concede the doubles victory to the United States. They likely will give Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus, the French second string doubles pair, order to go right out in an attempt to wipe up the courts with the Wimbledon and American Davis Cup champions.

Tilden Beats Lott in Three Hard Sets.

Tilden and Lott again played three hard sets against each other in today's practice and Tilden once more outclassed the Chicago boy.

Cochet played five sets against Boussus and the French professional, Martin Plaa. Henri, at the top of his form, reeled off 30 games against the youngster and professional who shared the court together and could only win seven games. The only serene player on the courts was Cochet and he seemed blissfully unconscious of what was at stake either for France or for himself. He seems likely to electrify the crowded stands tomorrow with a complete reversal of the form that brought about his defeat at Wimbledon.

In the meantime the box office cash registers clicked along merrily. The advance sale already has passed the million-mark point, breaking all records since the cup came back to France in 1927.

Helen Jacobs, Ill, Quits Tennis for 1930 Season

Seabright, N. J., July 24 (A.P.).—Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Calif., second ranking American woman tennis star, announced today she would quit tournament play for the rest of the year She gave ill health as the reason for her withdrawal.

Miss Jacobs has just recovered from an attack of pleurisy and said she was entirely too weak to stand the strain of tournament tennis.

Yanks Beat Tigers, 5-2, As Ruth Hits No. 36

Detroit, July 24 (A.P.).—Guy Cantrell, who came to Detroit from Toronto this week, made his first American League start today and gave the New York Yankees a great battle before succumbing, 5 to 2.

Cantrell allowed eight hits, one of them a drive high into the bleachers in right center by Babe Ruth for his thirty-sixth home run of the season, putting him five homers and seventeen days ahead of his 1927 record, when he set his great mark. The Babe had only 31 on July 24 and did not make No. 26 until August 10.

Roy Sherid, of the Yankees, did his best pitching with men on bases. He allowed only seven hits, but often was forced to bear down, as the Tigers had runners on the sacks in every inning. Sherid received good support, while Detroit errors allowed two Yankee runs to score.

Hafey Hits Two Homers, But Braves Whip Cards

Boston, July 24.—Despite the heroic effort of Chick Hafey, St. Louis Cardinal left fielder, who hit two home runs, a double and a single in four trips to the plate, Bobby Smith pitched the Boston Braves to a 5-to-4 win over the visitors today in the first game of the current series with the Westerners.

Hafey drove in three of the visitors' four runs. His two homers brought his four-bagger total to 14 for the season. Berger, sensational Braves' recruit, was another who had a perfect day at bat. His twenty-seventh home run of the season, which came in the first off Haines, brought Maranville in ahead of him. Haines was charged with the loss of the game.

Giants, Aided by Rain, Beat Bucs in 6 Innings

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—A home run by Fred Lindstrom, some fine pitching by Carl Hubbell and a timely storm enabled the Giants to defeat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 1 to 0, today in the six inning opening game of their series.

Lindstrom clouted his homer in the first inning for the game's only tally, and for the next five frames Remy Kremer had the Giants helpless. Hubbell allowed only one hit and fanned five in his six innings. He weakened in the seventh and had filled the bases when the darkness preceding the rain forced a halt in the action.

Good fielding on both sides prevented scoring. Each team made two double plays, while Wally Roettger halted what looked like a Pittsburgh score with a fine catch of Suhr's long drive when Bartell was on second.

VETERAN'S 66 LEADS FIELD IN CANADA

Thompson, 50-Year-Old Pro, Sets Pace on Own Links.

ANCESTER Ontario, July 24 (A.P.)—A canny veteran of close to 50, Nicol Thompson, sr., used his knowledge of the course to good advantage today to set the pace for the best professionals of Canada and the United States in the opening round of the Canadian open golf championship at the Hamilton Country Club.

Playing on his home course, the veteran Canadian, pro shot a brilliant 66, equaling the course record, in the first 18-hole round to lead Al Watrous, Detroit, pro, by two strokes. In a fourway tie for third place at 69 were four players from the United States, Leo Diegel, the defending champion; Ed Dudley, of Wilmington, Del.; Tony Manero, of Elmsford, N. Y., and Charles Lacey, the English pro, at the Pine Valley Club in Pennsylvania.

Walter Hagen went around with Charlie Murray, veteran of the Royal Montreal Club, and the largest gallery of the day saw them each travel the course in 70 strokes, as did MacDonald Smith, of New York, and J. B. Heaney, of Rochester, N. Y.

"Long Jim" Barnes, of New York; George von Elm, of Detroit, and Fred M. Lyon, of Toronto, turned in 71s, the latter climaxing a steady round with a sensational eagle two at the home hole, where he holed out with an iron from 200 yards off the green. Lyon's father, the famous George S. Lyon, who has won the Canadian amateur title eight times, scored a 78 today despite his 72 years.

Johnny Farrell, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Horton Smith, representing the Cragston, N. Y., Club, went around in 72 strokes. But Tommy Armour needed 74. C. Ross Somerville, the crack London, Ontario, amateur, covered the first nine in 33 strokes, but needed 41 coming home to tie Armour at 74. A stroke lower than this was Tom Kerrigan's 73, while Emmet French, of Southern Pines, N. C., carded a 72 despite a weak finish.

Newtown and Gavuzzi Win Their Fourth Lap

Ste. Anne Del La Perade, Quebec, July 24 (A.P.).—Arthur Newton, of South Africa, and Pete Gavuzzi, of Southampton, England, won their fourth lap in succession in the international relay race today. Newton and Gavuzzi covered the 56 miles from Quebec in 7 hours and 9 minutes. Their total elapsed time for the five laps covered so far was 34 hours 19 minutes.

A'S WIN, 8-6, ON FOXX'S HOMER

Blow Beats Indians in 9th Inning of See-Saw Game.

CLEVELAND, July 24 (A.P.).—Jimmy Foxx's twenty-seventh home run of the season, delivered in the ninth inning with one on base and the score tied, today won the first game of the series for the Philadelphia Athletics over Cleveland, 8 to 6.

The drive went high into center field bleachers, scoring Cochrane, who had walked. Simmons drove his twenty-third homer of the season over the right-field wall in the first inning, scoring Bishop ahead, and Morgan slammed his twentieth circuit blow in the fifth, scoring Jamieson and Porter ahead.*

The champion Athletics stretched their lead to five games over the second-place Washington Club, which lost a 10-4 decision to the White Sox in the opener of the series at Chicago.

MOE BEATEN IN WESTERN AMATEUR TITLE DEFENSE

Lehman Ousts Champion on 37th Hole

Perkins, Briton, Also Gains Semifinals, Winning, 2 and 1.

McCrary and Couch, Other Survivors, to Meet Today.

By PAUL MICKELSON.

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—Don Moe, of Portland, Oreg., wearied by his long golfing wars in England, went down fighting today in his struggle to defend his Western Amateur Golf championship over the narrow fairways and pitfalls of the Beverly Country Club course.

The smiling champion and Walker Cup star fell before another fighting youth, Johnny Lehman, of Chicago, one up after their quarterfinal battle had extended to the 37th green. The result forged another chain of jinxes that has followed champions of the Western Amateur, as not since 1923 has a title holder retained his crown.

A 35-foot putt, roaming down a treacherous course, accomplished the conquest for Lehman, who brought the Big Ten championship to Old Purdue just three years ago. Going to the 37th green both he and Moe were equidistant from the cup, Johnny putted first and dropped it. The fading champion also tried, but his ball stopped two feet short of the cup and it was all over.

Perkins' Comeback Thrills Gallery.

Three other sharpshooters, T. Philip Perkins, lately of King George's golfing forces; Ira Couch, of Chicago, and Bob McCrary, trans-Mississippi champion from Des Moines, also reached the semifinal round, but it was T. Philip himself who gave the galleryites their next biggest thrill. Four down at the end of the eighteenth-hole morning round, the bespectacled Briton, who now resides in New York, came back with par-breaking golf to overtake Jack Westland, Chicago district champion, and then defeat him two and one.

He didn't have to finish out on the final green of the round, but he kept on going to post a startling 69, two big strokes under par, for the exceptionally rugged course. The mark tied the course record, but it was not accepted as such because of a few conceded putts. He meets Lehman tomorrow in the upper bracket's 36-hole match battle. McCrary and Couch clash in the lower field.

"Fighting Scot" Stages Rally.

McCrary, known among golfers as the "Fighting Scot," upheld his reputation to win today. The Scot finished his morning round two down to the hard hitting Gus Novotny, of Chicago, and at the end of the third hole of the afternoon he was four down. But from that juncture on he staged a comeback equaled only by Perkins, and shot sensational golf and pulled up all square again at the end of the thirty-third hole. He was unstoppable after that.

Couch had the easiest fight of the day to defeat Charlie Fish, of Rockford, Ill., 6 and 5.

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE MODESTY PURSE for fillies at 1 mile brings out a select field at Arlington Park today, but small in numbers. There are not many other fillies in the West that could race successfully against the ones nominated. Walter J. Salmon's SNOWFLAKE is best of the field. She has seldom been defeated in her own class, that is in a filly race. It would be better for her were the route longer. VALENCIENNES is next best, it seems, having won her last two races. MOLASSES JANE has speed and can go a route. She has raced very little since early spring, but has beaten good horses. SNOWFLAKE carries top weight.

FIRST RACE, for 2-year-old fillies, may go to ROSEVOLT, and she will be at long odds. She has come up to this race at her best and they are all maidens. ULTRAMARINE probably will be one of the favorites, and should figure in the race. MAGOTHY may get the show money.

SECOND RACE — The Greentree Stable's ROMANY BAW is well placed in the second race under claiming conditions. HARAMZADA probably will be the contender. HOGAN'S DANCE is a show probability. ROMANY BAW has been running with better horses.

THIRD RACE—GREY GULL seems to be a kind of standout in the third race, for 3-year-olds at 1 mile. FLYING EXPRESS is very fast and should be no worse than second. UPSE-DAISY is next best.

FOURTH RACE—The Mount Morris Purse is for 2-year-olds. UPRIGHT, a recent winner, will have PITTSBURGHER to beat. This is the largest field on the card. AUNT DEB has a good chance to show, as has JOHN MILL. UPRIGHT breaks quickly and may get so far in front of the others that they will never catch him.

SIXTH RACE—MY SCOOP stands almost alone in the sixth race, a claiming event for 3-year-olds. KING KELLY should be one of the contenders. Delmonico has a chance to be in the money. WOOD AXTOM has too much racing.

SEVENTH RACE—Is a mile and a furlong. FRANCES MILWARD gets in very light, and can go the route. She should be an easy winner over this field. BIG SWEEP is rated next best and should take the place over QUIBBLER or ORMONBIRD. The last two would have a better chance in the mud. The hard track at Arlington is good for time records, but it has been trying on some of the horses. The breaking down of Blue Larkspur after his two victories there while working out for the rich handicap tomorrow may have been partly attributable to the hard track.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE OKAH, $6.90, $3.26, $3.26; NIFTY, $3.08, $2.76; HOT TIME, $6.52.

THE OKAH, away fast, quickly went into lead on inside and, continuing with most speed, held NIFTY safe and won by half a length. NIFTY raced in closest pursuit of the winner, forcing pace and, saving ground, could not overhaul THE OKAH, but outfinished HOT TIME. HOT TIME, a forward factor, staged a long, hard drive with C. M. M'KENNA, finally outgaming latter through final furlong. C. M. M'KENNA went wide and no mishaps. ROY GIBSON and BLACK FLIER were outrun. NORA D. started from outside the gate.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,800. Texas Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:06½. Off at 4:07. Winner, W. C. and E. W. Reichert's ch. c. (6), by Ponte Drapeau—Sceptre and Star. Trained by J. Carter. Value to winner, $1,300; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:45 2-5, 1:10 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY DANDY, $5.30, $2.62, out; PANSY WALKER, $2.36, out; MORSEL, out.

MY DANDY, on the outside, had the hardest task, having to go wide and, losing ground, was beginning to drop back a bit entering the stretch after forcing the early pace, but came again strongly under hard urging through final eighth, wore down leaders gradually near the end, but just lasted. PANSY WALKER had her speed, indulging in pace strongly, was on inside in close quarters in the stretch, being headed by MORSEL an eighth out and, holding on gamely, finally outgamed latter. MORSEL came fast entering stretch, went into brief lead midway of stretch but, tiring in the final drive, weakened right at end. DINAH DID UPSET was outrun to stretch, but overhauled the leaders with rapid strides and probably would have won at a slightly longer distance, finishing much the fastest.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,600. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at 4:38½. Winner, Audley Farm's b. c. (3), by High Cloud—Lassie. Trained by S. M. Henderson. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 2-5, 1:11, 1:36 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLYER, $17.06, $6.38, $2.68; MISS BESS, $3.38, $2.22; FORTUNATE YOUTH, $2.22.

FLYER opened up a safe early lead, showed most speed, was not seriously threatened until well entering stretch, but never resisted the challenge of FORTUNATE YOUTH and held MISS BESS safe. MISS BESS, under restraint first six furlongs, came fast in stretch and outgamed FORTUNATE YOUTH. FORTUNATE YOUTH was sore going to post, but raced forwardly in pursuit of FLYER, but tired in final drive. SUSIE JANE, prominent to the stretch, weakened under pressure and quit.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:07½. Off at 5:08. Winner, French Lick Springs Stable's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—AMYVALE, $25.28, $9.78, $6.04; BOOM, $4.32, $4.16; SEARINGTON, $6.20.

AMYVALE, outrun first six furlongs, came fast in last half mile, wore down BOOM in final sixteenth and won going away. BOOM broke poorly, was rushed into contention and, much used up in closing a wide gap to reach the leaders entering stretch where he took command when straightened out, faltered in the late stages and could not withstand winner. SEARINGTON showed early speed, seemingly was done at stretch turn, but came again strongly, outfinishing JUGGLER. JUGGLER took lead from SEARINGTON at half-mile pole, set pace with short advantage to the stretch, but tired badly thereafter. ROLLING SEA was never dangerous. CRYSTAL DOMINO quit early.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:36. Off at 5:38. Winner, P. M. Walker's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LOCKET, $34.10, $13.78, $7.86; MR. DE LUXE, $11.28, $5.42; J. A. WEIL, $4.90.

LOCKET raced into command right after the start, took a good lead and easily won all the way. MR. DE LUXE moved up fast on outside entering the stretch, disposed of the remainder and was gradually overhauling the winner in the late stages. J. A. WEIL raced forwardly among the contenders throughout, had no mishaps and, though tiring, held on fairly well. HY SCHNEIDER could never get up. HOLD FAST needed the race. VIOLIN began slowly and was never a strong factor. ELLEN N. tired. MASTER ACE raced poorly.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:06½. Off at 6:07. Winner, E. J. Rolling' blk. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROCK HAWK, $18.36, $7.08, $5.32; PRETTY POSE, $5.58, $4.82; PRATE, $4.50.

ROCK HAWK, held off pace until reaching stretch, just got up to outfinish PRETTY POSE in hard final drive. PRETTY POSE had speed from the start, was raced on the pace throughout, resumed lead from PRATE midway of the stretch, but tired and could not withstand winner. PRATE closed a good gap in first six furlongs, took a brief lead entering stretch, but could not hold it. PRINCE TII TII closed a good gap. FRIEDJOF NANSEN had brief early speed, but showed a dull effort. CZARIST, hard ridden, raced into command at far turn and held it for two furlongs, but tired badly.

CONSIDINE AND MITCHELL UPSET IN PARKS TENNIS

Favored Pair Are Beaten 7-5, 6-3

Markey and Yeomans Play Brilliantly in Surprise.

Considine, Yeomans Reach Semifinals in Singles.

SPELLING the stream of upsets that has been gaining in volume ever since the opening day, Bud Markey and Eddie Yeomans, seeded fifth, handed Bob Considine and Dooley Mitchell, seeded first, a straight-set defeat yesterday in the third round of doubles in the annual public parks championship tennis tournament at Monument courts. The scores were 7—5, 6—3.

To have beaten Considine and Mitchell in three sets would have been a great feat for Markey and Yeomans, so what they did therefore became the topic of furious tongue wagging that probably still goes on apace. The defeated pair had been regarded almost certain winners of the doubles title.

By winning his quarter-final singles match from Barney Welsh, Yeomans kept alive his hopes to win both titles. Welsh the day before had registered an upset by defeating Maurice O'Neill, seeded third, but he found Yeomans entirely too versatile for him. The scores were 9—7, 6—1.

Considine Pressed by Trigg.

Considine, the playing-through singles champion, passed the quarter-finals by defeating Hugh Trigg, seeded eighth, 8—6, 6—1. The champion encountered unexpectedly hard opposition in the first set.

A tantalizing lobbying game was projected by Markey and Yeomans as their most effective weapon, and it brought them plenty of points when their foes smashed out of bounds. The overhead work of Considine and Mitchell was weak.

The first set was evenly contested until the eleventh game, when Markey took his service to go ahead at 6—5, and with Yeomans broke through Considine's delivery in the twelfth game.

Markey and Yeomans gained a 2-to-0 lead in the second set to place Considine and Mitchell in a serious hole. The favorites, however, rallied at this point to win two straight games and deadlock matters. Then the ultimate winners put on a drive that netted a 5-to-2 advantage before Considine won his service at love in the eighth game. Yeomans then served a love game to end the match.

Misses Frazier, Keyser Win in Doubles.

In the women's doubles, Corinne Frazier and Peggy Keyser defeated Mrs. Katherine Edge and Margaret Ryan, 6—1, 7—5, and Dorothy Kingsbury and Louise Omwake eliminated Betty Whitfield and Edith McKelvey, 6—3, 6—2.

Emerson Institute Engages Two More Coaches for 1930

Ernie Millar, Potomac Boat Club Star, and W. K. Keller to Join Sanborn Staff in Expansion of Sports Program.

MARKED athletic expansion in 1930 at Emerson Institute was presaged last night when the addition of two coaches, the introduction of a sport for the first time in the school's history, and the revival of two teams dormant for the past few years, was announced by Harlan Page Sanborn, athletic director.

Ernie Millar, Potomac Boat Club athlete, and William K. Keller, former baseball coach at Woodward School, are the men signed as coaches, the former to act in the capacity of a student-coach, in order not to jeopardize his amateur standing by receiving a regular salary.

Simultaneously it was announced that boxing would become a sport at Emerson for the first time in 1930 and that cross-country and indoor track would form a major part of the winter program. The latter two sports were not represented by teams last year, but have formed a part of the school's sports curriculum in years past.

The signing of Millar and Keller brings the number of new coaches at Emerson to three. Gordon Kessler, former University of Maryland star, was signed early this week.

Millar, who intends to study at Emerson next year, will assume the role of general trainer in all sports and will, probably, have complete charge of the track team. He is well-known as an oarsman in local circles and is actively affiliated with the local branch of the A. A. U. as representative of the Potomac Boat Club.

Keller, a University of Southern California graduate, is expected to assist in two or three sports and have active charge of a third. He coached baseball at Woodward last year and established a fine record on the diamond for that school, which was in its first year of existence.

It is planned to have Kessler act as assistant football coach and supervise a lightweight eleven, which will be instituted at Emerson next fall. Kessler last year was in charge of athletics at Landon Prep School. He graduated from Maryland in 1928 at the end of a brilliant athletic career.

Boxing has been listed as a major sport and bouts have already been scheduled with the ring teams of Augusta Military Academy and Tome Institute. Cross country and indoor track teams will be organized in September and a regular track team will be organized next spring.

Shamrock V Half Way To Azores From Britain

Aboard Sir Thomas Lipton's Yacht Erin Convoying the Shamrock V, July 24 (A.P.).—The America's cup challenger and her convoying steam yacht this afternoon reached the half way point of their voyage from Britain to the Azores, en route to the international regatta.

Everything went well with the westward voyage, although this evening the yachts are in the midst of rough weather.

Strong southwest winds, with a heavy sea, were the overnight prospect of the voyagers.

Stribling Reaches Peak For Battle With Scott

Windsor, England, July 24 (A.P.).—Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., in four fast rounds with his sparring partners today finished up heavy training for his fight with Phil Scott Monday night for what is officially heralded as "the heavyweight championship of the Old World."

Tonight the pride of Georgia sleeps near the battlements of old Windsor Castle, confident that the encounter will put him on the threshold of a world championship duel with Max Schmeling and will be short and decisive in his favor.

Stribling's final heavy workout was before invited guests and anybody else who wanted to come except Charles Rose, British manager of Scott, whom "Pa" Stribling invited to leave the ringside.

"You can watch the boy skipping rope, but it's hardly fair to see him box," explained the elder Stribling. "We haven't been to Scott's camp and I see no reason for your presence here."

Promoter Jeff Dixon seconded the Stribling suggestion. Rose expressed surprise and departed, while the young Georgian went to work on four sparring partners.

ALEX JUNIOR NINE WINS TITLE

State Legion Honors Go With Defeat of Roanoke Post.

RICHMOND, Va., July 24.—"On to Gastonia, N. C.," was the cry of the Alexandria American Legion Nine after defeating Roanoke Post for the undisputed junior baseball championship of the State of Virginia here today. The Alexandria boys won the verdict, 6 to 5, in a thrilling game.

Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia attended the contest and tossed out the first ball.

With the score deadlocked in the last half of the eighth inning, 5 to 5, the Alexandria boys pushed over the winning tally. Godfrey, diminutive third sacker, drew a pass; Clift and Baber fanned and Bill Fletcher socked a triple to deep right center to send Godfrey home. Fletcher had a chance for a home run, but was held up at third.

Jack Hudson, who starred in Alexandria's victory over Danville yesterday, relieved Nicholson in the sixth, when the little southpaw weakened. Hudson held the Roanokers at bay the rest of the route.

Alexandria by winning this contest is the undisputed champion of the State of Virginia in the junior class and will represent the State in the regional "8" series to be played at Gastonia, N. C., August 7, 8 and 9. The victor in this series will travel to Charlottesville, Va., for the national semifinals.

City Manager Wallace Lawrence, members of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, Legionnaires and 100 citizens from Alexandria formed a cheering gallery for their favorites. The Alexandrians immediately after the game escorted the boys to their headquarters in this city and then left in a body for home, where a big reception awaits the team.

Vanderbilt Coach Seeks Nonscouting Pact

Nashville, Tenn., July 24 (A.P.).—Col. Dan McGugin, dean of Southern gridiron coaches, has proposed a nonscouting agreement to all opponents of his Vanderbilt Football Team this fall.

He announced today that letters urging this policy had been sent to coaches of the ten teams which the Commodores meet on the gridiron during the 1930 season.

McGugin, who was coaching at Vanderbilt while most of the other present-day mentors in Dixie were in knee-pants, has long been an exponent of the nonscouting idea.

Thus far only Curly Byrd, University of Maryland coach, has agreed to McGugin's plan. Last year Vanderbilt held such an agreement with Georgia Tech, but it was uncertain whether the contract will be renewed. McGugin, who directs his twenty-seventh Vanderbilt squad next fall, also inaugurated the "B" team plan in the South. While his varsity squad is on the road the colonel will have his "B" team playing home games here. The second squad is made of light players and those not seasoned enough for varsity play.

ROBINS SPLIT AND CLING TO LEAD

Reds Take First, 4-3; Dodgers Win 2d by 9-0 Count.

BROOKLYN, July 24 (A.P.).—Brooklyn clung to first place today by winning the shortened second game of a double-header from Cincinnati, 9 to 0, after the Reds had taken the first, 4 to 3.

The second game started with two Brooklyn runs in the first inning and a storm approaching. After considerable stalling by both sides, the required four and one-half innings were completed and the Robins opened fire on Frey for seven more runs in the fifth, while Phelps allowed only three hits and no runs in the entire game. The game was called in the first half of the sixth on account of rain.

Cincinnati drove Vance from the mound in the first game and held off the late Robin's rallies. Brooklyn failed to put over the tying run when they had chances in the eighth and ninth innings, Campbell forced Boone to hit into a double play on the first occasion and Ash struck out Flowers and retired Frederick on a line drive to Tellman in the final frame.

STOCK PRICES DROP IN VERY QUIET DAY

Atlantic Refining, Coca Cola, American Power & Light, However, Advance.

BROKERS' LOANS DECLINE

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Stocks declined today in one of the year's dullest markets. The bull faction, cautious after the advances of yesterday and Tuesday, was active in only a few stocks, but supported leading shares on a scale-down.

The bears likewise seemed reluctant to take chances in view of the market's recent strength, and profit-taking rather than short selling was probably the dominant factor in the dip. Losses averaged about two points.

Those espousing the long side took some comfort from the fact that trading volume shriveled. Total sales were only 1,475,000 shares, the smallest since July 9. The decreased activity was interpreted in the dull camp as evidence that the market was consolidating its gains, and also taking care lest an advance be carried too far at a time when confidence is beginning to be restored.

Speculative influences again controlled the movement of prices, for it was a dull day in the news. Stocks tended to fluctuate with reports on earnings or earnings prospects, and the bears utilized unfavorable rumors to force certain issues lower.

There were two or three attempts at a rally, none of which got very far. American Can touched its best price in more than a month and Westinghouse Electric rose about a point, accompanied by pool accumulation in a few issues like Vanadium and Commercial Solvents. But the improvement for the most part was temporary, and the market sagged throughout the greater part of the afternoon.

New Rail Move Rumored.

Announcement that Southern Pacific had already acquired a minority interest in St. Louis Southwestern and planned to get control, subject to Interstate Commerce Commission approval, thereby necessitating a change in the commission's consolidation announcement, brought a 5-point gain in the Cotton Belt road's common, while the preferred made a new high. Atlantic Refining was actively bought, particularly in the late dealings. Coca Cola, American Power & Light, American Chain and Auto Strop also moved against the trend, the last-named making another new high.

General Motors earnings report stimulated accumulation of the shares, which were firm almost all day, reacting only a small fraction. Reports that American Can's statement would be favorable and that U. S. Steel would show $3 for the second quarter, thereby assuring that the year's dividend would be nearly covered in the first half, were well received, although Steel lost 1¾ on the day.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol was conspicuously weak, tumbling nearly 8 points net on selling in anticipation of the unfavorable first half report. National Cash Register was in supply after the announcement of the 10 per cent wage reduction. Follansbee Bros. broke 3 on the dividend cut.

Chesapeake & Ohio Off.

Stocks off two to three points included American Telephone, Columbian Carbon, Vanadium, Worthington Pump, Foster Wheeler, Chesapeake & Ohio, and American Tobacco "B." J. I. Case, R. H. Macy, and Allied Chemical suffered larger losses. International Harvester, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, General Electric, and Radio yielded about a point.

The decline of $17,000,000 in brokers' loans reflected the market's reaction last Saturday and Monday, and was somewhat of a surprise, for in many quarters a small increase had been expected. However, Wall street's interest in the loan figures these days is largely academic.

The Federal Reserve statement showed a drop of $36,000,000 in the amount of credit outstanding. Discounts and open market bill purchases were off about $17,000,000 each for the system.

Changes in grain quotations were narrow. Wheat closed virtually unchanged, while corn was moderately higher on bullish reports from Iowa and Kansas and news of crop damage in Texas. Cotton lost 18 to 25 points net.

Foreign exchanges eased slightly. Another $1,500,000 in gold was withdrawn for shipment to Canada.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Cotton was lower today under more active and general selling, which appeared to be promoted by the failure of recent unfavorable weather conditions to bring in more general crop complaints from the South and reports of rains or showers in Mississippi and Alabama.

July and the nearer new-crop months made new low records for the season, with the new October selling off to 12.45, or 29 points net lower. That delivery closed at 12.52, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 18 to 25 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 point to a decline of 3 points. There appeared ot be some buying on overnight weather news, but the demand was limited and prices soon weakened under renewed liquidation combined with some further local and Southern selling. Offerings increased slightly after the posting of the weather map, but after showing declines of about 10 to 17 points the market stiffened up on the official forecast for thunder showers in central belt sections, but nothing more than partly cloudy to unsettled in Arkansas and the Southwest. This demand was supplied on moderate bulges, however, and the market weakened again.

Selling became more active after the posting of the detailed weather reports for the day showing considerable rain in Mississippi and Alabama with showers at several points in Arkansas, and prices broke sharply in the late trading. Some trade selling was reported as well as further commission house liquidation, and stop orders were uncovered as prices broke into new low ground for the season on both the old and new December contracts. The old October sold off to 12.69 and the new December to 12.64, making net declines of about 25 to 30 points on the more active positions. Closing quotations were a few points up from the lowest on covering.

The day's selling was attributed, in part, at least, to an impression that the drought was being gradually broken, although some felt that the rains or showers so far reported had been inadequate. Trading was more active and general today than it has been for some time and some Southern selling was reported on the decline.

Liverpool cables said that liquidation and Bombay hedge selling in that market had been absorbed by trade calling and scale down buying, checking the decline. Exports today, 100, making 6,806,032 so far this season, according to revised figures. Port receipts, 1,617. U. S. port stocks, 1,561,307.

RAIL BONDS SCORE IN BRISK TURNOVER

Several Carriers Touch New 1930 Peaks as Steady Course Continues.

UTILITIES MOVE SLOWLY

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Under the leadership of obligations of railroads operating in the Southwest, carrier bonds developed real strength on the New York Stock Exchange today.

The market as a whole showed no reversal of the firm trend which has carried the price level upward at a consistent but slow pace and the increased demand for prime rails provided impetus for broadened activity. The volume of sales was the best in two weeks, approximating $9,855,000.

Confirmation of reports that the Southern Pacific Railroad was seeking control of the St. Louis, Southwestern Railroad, having already acquired a large minority interest, turned the spotlight on carrier bonds of roads in that section. Unusual activity in several issues developed and net gains ranged up to nearly 2 points, and a dozen or more new 1930 high marks were established.

Southern Railway Advances.

Market activity developed in bonds of the Southern Pacific, St. Louis, San Francisco, Kansas City Southern, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and Southern Railway. Kansas Southern 5s gained 1½, M. K. T. R., 4½s, 1½ to reach new highs. Southern Railway gained 2 and accumulation in other issues was at generally higher prices.

Other marked advances were in Atlantic Coast Line 4½s, Chicago and Northwestern 3½s, Canadian Pacific 4's to reach the peak prices of the year. All in all, rails made the best showing of the week despite quietness of some, of the most popular issues.

Utility Issues Move Slowly.

Utility issues moved slowly, apparently affected by the large volume of new issues which shows no signs of slackening for some time. As the latest offerings of the so-called Electric Bond & Share group of utilities, $33,730,000 in 5 per cent bonds on the market tomorrow. Nominal gains were made by American Telephone issues, Consolidated Gas 5½s and International Telephone 5s. Detroit Edison 5s sagged.

Especial interest was displayed in Liberty fourth, 4¼s, and Treasury 4¼s, with the former reaching a new high price for the year. Other governments were irregular.

Stock privilege issues were hesitant but dipped slightly at the close in sympathy with shares on the big board.

With the exception of a few high grade issues, foreign issues received little attention and fluctuated within a narrow range. Belgian, French and German issues were moderately accumulated and firm. Austrian 7s lost ground and Lower Austrian 7½s sagged 3 points. South American bonds were lethargic. Bolivian 7s developed weakness, losing about 3 points. Chile Mortgage Bank 6s rose 1 point. Cuban Republic 5s were strong.

CAPITAL TRACTION SHARES ADVANCING

10-Cent Car Fare Is Seen as Reason for ¼-Point Climb in Stock.

TRADING IN SMALL LOTS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Increased street railway car fare has resulted in brisk advances in Capital Traction stock on the Washington Stock Exchange where there has been a total turnover of approximately 515 shares in the issue thus far this week. Practically all of the sales have been in small lots.

Yesterday, trading in the stock was lighter but gains registered since 10-cent car fare became assured were maintained. The stock opened at 67⅛, advanced to 67¼ and closed at 67⅜, which was fractionally higher than the closing figure of Wednesday. Forty shares changed hands.

Pennsylvania Holders Increasing.

Another new high record in the number of Pennsylvania Railroad stockholders has been reached for the present month, according to notice received yesterday from the local office, 207,869 owners of the shares being registered on the books of the company according to compilation. The July, 1930, registration shows an increase of 49,413 as compared with the month last year and a gain of 1,010 over the preceding month.

The unparalleled increase in the number of the road's shareholders in recent months has been due primarily to allotment at par of new stock to stockholders in 1929 and in 1928, to both stockholders and employes.

There has been also a continuance of the general tendency toward a wider distribution of stock among permanent investors, which has been going on for a long period. The new figures show that the average holding of all stockholders is 62.33, a decrease of 8.72 shares as compared with a year ago. A total of 12,955,448 shares at a par value of $50 each was outstanding on July 1.

Texas Electric Service Issue.

New financing aggregating $33,730,000 for the account of the Texas Electric Service Co. is placed on the market today with the offering of a new issue of first mortgage gold bonds, 5 per cent, series due 1960, through a syndicate comprising Bonbright & Co., Inc., Halsey, Stuart & Co., Harris, Forbes & Co., W. C. Langley & Co., and Coffin & Burr. The bonds are priced at 97¾ and accrued interest to yield over 5.14 per cent.

The offering constitutes the largest piece of public utility financing offered in the investment markets since the turn of the half year. The property is supervised by Electric Bond & Share Co., and all of its common stock is owned by American Power & Light Co.

I. Miller & Sons, manufacturer and chain store operator, for the four months ended April 30, 1930, reports net profit of $292,733 against $275,097 for the same period last year, an increase of over 6 per cent.

Vice President and Treasurer Charles R. Grant, of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., is spending the remainder of the month at Atlantic City.

BURGLAR IS BALKED IN ATTEMPT TO ROB CHEWNINGS' ROOMS

Stranger Hurries Off When Found by Janitor in Apartment House.

SCREWDRIVER IN HAND; SCRATCHES ON DOOR

Apparently Tried Several Times to Get Effects of Rich Newlyweds.

A portly and middle-aged white man made an attempt to break into the apartment of William J. Chewning, son-in-law of Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, and one of Washington's wealthiest newlyweds, yesterday and was only frustrated through the chance discovery of his presence by the janitor of the building.

The latter, Andrew Burris, came upon the stranger in the hallway near the Chewning apartment. The man had a screw driver in his hand, and when he was unable to explain why he was in the building he left hurriedly.

Marks Found on Door.

Investigation disclosed that the door of the Chewning apartment had resisted several attempts to pry it open. The marks made by the screw driver were evidence that half a dozen attempts had been made, the man apparently working a few minutes and then strolling away, only to return for another try.

The Chewning-Couzens marriage several months ago was a complete surprise to the couple's friends here. Following the wedding the couple announced that they would take a small apartment on upper Seventeenth street and would live on the salary Mr. Chewning made as a clerk in a bank.

Plans Are Revised.

The "honeymoon" apartment was never used, the couple securing an apartment in the building at 2540 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and Mr. Chewning left his position in the bank to become a "customer's man" in a brokerage house.

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner, is a resident of the same apartment building.

Man Faces Theft Count 11 Years Old

Prisoner Is Accused of Robbing His Benefactor Here in 1919.

Edward A. Posselt, 25 years old, was brought to Washington yesterday to face a charge of grand larceny which was preferred 11 years ago. In 1919 Posselt was befriended by Ernest L. Crandall, of 6611 Harlan place northwest, who gave him a home.

Posselt admits, police say, that he cleaned out the house of his benefactor, taking a moving picture camera, a pocket camera, a camera lens and a pistol, after which he disappeared. In 1928 he was sentenced in Newark, N. J., to 18 months in jail for tampering with a safe. He was brought to Washington yesterday after he had finished the Newark sentence.

Posselt said he did not know why he took the cameras from Harlan, who is employed in the photographic laboratory of the Department of Agriculture. He left the movie camera in a rooming house on Pennsylvania avenue, he said, and sold the other articles for small sums. The total value of the stolen goods was $397.

Mrs. Neuhauser Asks Policy Funds

Insurance Transfers Made Without Her Consent, She Declares.

Mrs. Marguerite L. Neuhauser, of 1847 Kalorama road northwest, widow of Roy L. Neuhauser, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to declare null and void transfers of insurance policies totaling $45,000, which he made during his life for the pufpose of securing loans. The wife states that she was the beneficiary under the policies and that the transfer was made to her husband's estate without her consent.

The suit is directed against Riggs National Bank, executor of Mr. Neuhauser's estate, and the plaintiff asks that the administrator be compelled to pay over to her the money received on the policies.

In addition, Mrs. Neuhauser states that between 1923 and 1929 she made loans to her husband, totaling $20,140, on the security which she supposed she had under the policies. She asks the court for an opportunity to prove her claim in relation to the loans.

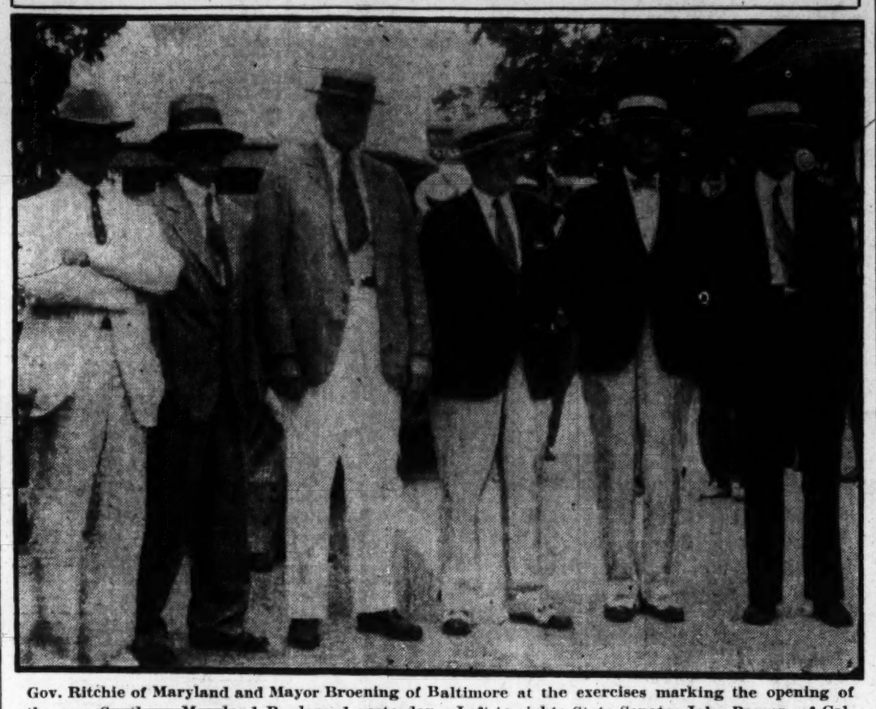
OFFICIALS AT OPENING OF BOULEVARD



Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Mayor Broening of Baltimore at the exercises marking the opening of the new Southern Maryland Boulevard yesterday. Detrick and State Senator Walter W. Mitchell, of Charles County.

MARYLAND HIGHWAY DEDICATION IS HELD

Ritchie and Broening Deliver Speeches During Event at Seaside Park.

PROJECT COSTS $500,000

Southern Maryland yesterday turned out in full force to celebrate the opening of the new Southern Maryland boulevard, which is another important link in the group of roads planned by the State Roads Commission to shorten the distance between northern and southern Maryland. Approximately 5,000 persons took part in a 5-mile-long motor parade from Hill's Bridge, where the new boulevard starts, to Seaside Park, where the dedicatory exercises were held.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and Mayor William F. Broening of Baltimore, both of whom are candidates for the governorship of Maryland, took part in the exercises.

The celebration started at about 11 o'clock in the morning when Gov. Ritchie's car broke through the ribbon which barred the new road from traffic near Hill's Bridge. The governor's car was closely followed by another bearing Mayor Broening. Approximately 1,000 gaily decorated automobiles followed bearing residents of southern Maryland and invited guests from Baltimore and Washington.

Police Accompany Parade.

The motorcade traversed the new road for a distance of 11 miles and then turned off to Seaside Park. Here parking facilities had been provided for the multitude with such care that the entire company had been located in parking space within an hour of the time the first car crossed the bridge into the park. The parade was escorted by a picked body of Maryland State policemen, under the personal command of Capt. Harry C. Butler, head of the State police, and First Sergt. R. A. Atkinson.

The long line was so unwieldly, however, that a few of the official cars became tangled in the line and did not arrive at the park until near the end of the parade. One car from Washington, which attempted to crowd ahead in the line, overturned when its wheels struck soft sand at the side of the road but there were no injuries and the mishap did not halt the parade.

Gov. Ritchie managed to escape from the rain jinx which has followed his last three or four public appearances, only a slight mist that was hardly noticeable falling while he spoke. Twenty miles away, at Upper Marlboro, the rain poured torrents for an hour at the time the executive spoke. Mayor Broening followed the governor on the program. State Senator John Parran, from Calvert County, made the address of welcome. John B. Gray, jr., chairman of the general committee in charge, acted as chairman. George J. Clautice, executive secretary of the Baltimore Association of Commerce, also spoke. The addresses were held short by all of the speakers. The new road was lauded as an important link in opening to commerce the portions of Southern Maryland which heretofore have not had ample roads.

Bathing Beauty Contest Held.

Following the speeches a bathing beauty contest was held at the swimming pool. Miss Melba Simpson, 16 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., was adjudged the most beautiful girl, the two runners-up being Miss Ethel Willis, 16, of Arlington County, Va., and Miss Tommy Higgins, 16, 1507 Monroe street northeast, Washington.

The three beauty contest winners then were appointed judges for the handsomest Maryland State policeman contest which followed. First Sergt. R. A. Atkinson was chosen by all three beauties without hesitation. W. E. Atkinson, of North Beach, Md., was chairman of the bathing beauty contest.

Swimming and diving contests and a grand ball at night, illumined by fireworks, completed the program for the day.

The exercises were held under the auspices of the Calvert County improvement committee. The new boulevard affords a shorter and more direct route to Solomon's Island, Prince Frederick and to Chesapeake Beach and other Chesapeake Bay resorts. It was constructed at a cost of $500,000. Joseph Chaney, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, was in charge of the project.

Court Plea Asks Interest on Claim

U. S. Has Paid $145,000 for Ship's Burning, but More Is Held Due.

The Hudson River Navigation Corporation of New York City yesterday petitioned the District of Columbia Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus to compel J. R. McCarl, Comptroller General, and Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, to obtain an appropriation from Congress of $5,010.54, which it is claimed is due as interest on a judgment obtained in the Court of Claims against the Government as the result of the destruction by fire of the steamer Fenimore in 1918.

According to the petition, filed through Attorneys Carlin & Carlin and Leslie C. Garnett, the judgment, which was for $145,000, has been paid. Secretary Mellon, however, refused to grant the interest despite the fact that corporation claims it is entitled to the additional amount, which is computed at 4 per cent from the period when a transcript of the judgment was filed with the Treasury Department and the mandate of the United States Supreme Court refusing to review the Court of Claims decision was handed down.

The steamer Fenimore at the time of its loss was in possession of and under charter to the United States, according to the petition.

Five men were arrested yesterday and nearly 60 gallons of contraband beverages were seized in the war against violators of the eighteenth amendment.

Four of the men were arrested when the vice squad, headed by Sergt. John R. Leach, raided the premises at 115 H street northwest. Joe M. Nickell, 33 years old, of R street near Fourteenth street norhwest, was charged with transportation and possession of 4½ gallons of liquor, as was Edward T. Windham, 33 years old, of New York avenue near First street northwest. Charges of possession were placed against Joseph J. Max Sklar, 24 years old, of Baltimore, Md., was arrested and charged with transportation of 5 gallons of alcohol and possession of 55 gallons. Privates R. F. McCarty and L. H. Francis, of the Tenth Precinct, arrested Sklar near Sixteenth and Irving street northwest, carrying the 5 gallons in his hand. In the man's garage, they said, they found 50 gallons more.

LANGUAGE INVENTOR TO STAY IN HOSPITAL

Man, Under Life Sentence for Murder, Returned to St. Elizabeths.

PLEA FOR WRIT DENIED

George C. Nelson, who is under life sentence following conviction on a murder charge in Alaska in 1921, lost his fight to be returned to McNeil's Island yesterday in District Supreme Court when Justice Peyton Gordon overruled his petition for a writ of habeas corpus and sent him back to the criminal insane ward at St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Nelson was brought to the local ingtitution in 1922, and in his petition he asked that he be freed from the hospital and returned to the jail. He bases his request on alleged constitutional rights.

Nelson, who claims to be the originator of a new language, was told by the court that it was believed that he should go back to the hospital and seek to teach his new language to the hospital physicians.

"In other words, you think I still need mending?" asked Nelson.

"I do," replied Justice Gordon. "Don't you?"

"Emphatically no!" said Nelson. At that stage Nelson declared that if the justice knew conditions at the hospital he would never send a man back to such an institution.

Nelson's language, according to his explanation offered the court, is rather complicated. He pointed out that his Christian name in his language is Geo—. The dash, he stated, stands for the letter "d," so his first name is Geod or God in the English.

The man, according to the United States attorney's office, was convicted of slaying a man in a dance hall brawl.

Assistant United States Attorney Charles B. Murray represented the Government at the hearing, while Nelson pleaded his own case.

All the property is designated as square 349, according to the petition which was filed in District of Columbia Supreme Court. Eight parcels of land are included in the area and most of it is improved by brick structures. Property on Pennsylvania avenue sought is designated as No. 1000, improved by a five-story brick building, and No. 1002, improved by a three-story brick building.

GILBERT B. TOWLES TO BE BURIED TODAY

Rector, Friend for Years of Civil War Veteran, 93, Will Officiate.

PROMINENT IN CHURCH

A last tribute will be paid this afternoon to Gilbert B. Towles, 93 years old, a native of Washington, who died Wednesday. The funeral will be held at 1 o'clock at St. Stephens and Incarnation Church, Sixteenth and Newton street northwest. The Rev. George F. Born in Washington September 7, 1837, Mr. Towles saw service in the Civil War in the District of Columbia National Rifles under Capt. Snead. He was an aid at the inauguration of President Lincoln. At the age of 10 he saw the remains of Henry Clay lying in state in the rotunda of the National Capitol.

Mr. Towles also served as an aid to Gen. Horatio King at Cleveland's second inauguration. Mr. Towles and Gen. King were boyhood friends. A life long attendant of the Episcopal Church, Mr. Towles, for 35 years, was a member of St. Stephens and was the first senior warden under the present rector. He was the last living warden of the Episcopal Church in Washington sent to New York to call the Rev. Henry Yates Saterlee as first Bishop of Washington. Mr. Towles was a Mason and a member of Solomon Lodge, No. 31, of Washington. He made his home at 3358 Eighteenth street northwest. The widow, Mrs. Caroline G. Towles, survives.

Two colored men were locked up yesterday morning on "numbers game" charges by Headquarters Detectives T. C. Bragg and H. E. Brodie, after a raid on the house at 629 I street northwest. The men arrested gave their names as Donald C. Fowler, colored, 41 years old, of Ford street near Eighteenth street northwest, and Claude Dunn, colored, 25 years old, of Eighth street near R street northwest.

Pearl Robertson, colored, 19 years old, of F street near Second street southwest, and Richard May, colored, 47 years old, of Second street near F street southwest, who were arrested by the same pair of detectives on similar charges on Wednesday, demanded a jury trial when they were arraigned yesterday.

Firecracker Thrower Hears Fate Tomorrow

Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court tomorrow is scheduled to impose sentence on Frank Jewett, 24 years old, of Third street northwest near G street, who has pleaded guilty to two charges of assault growing out of his alleged act of July 4, when he is said to have thrown firecrackers into a passing automobile.

Jewett, who demanded a trial by jury when he first was arraigned, subsequently changed his plea. He is accused of having injured Joseph Wilson, jr., six months old, and John R. Wilson, 7 years old, both of whom were riding in the automobile of their father, Joseph Wilson, of Florida avenue northest, near Thirteenth street, at the time.

Motorman's Action Saves Four Lives

Brings Car to Stop When Cart With Four Children Stalls on Tracks.

Only the quick action of Motorman W. B. Gittings, of Kensington, Md., saved four small children from death yesterday when their pony cart stopped on the tracks in front of an onrushing Capital Traction car, operated by Mr. Gittings. The cart, which was taking Bud Gummel, 10 years old, his sisters, Mildred, 8, and Evelyn, 11, and June Myers, 11 years old, all of the 4200 block Leland street, Chevy Chase, to school, stopped on the tracks at Connecticut avenue and Primrose street, Chevy Chase.

Even the quick stoppage of the car did not prevent a crash, but it was not a serious one. June and Mildred were thrown from the cart, however, by the impact, and one of the children rolled under the front of the car, which by this time had completely stopped.

Mrs. H. C. Myers, mother of June, said that Mr. Gittings deserved the highest praise for his action. "If he had not acted as he did," she said, "all of the children might have been killed."

TREE-SITTING PRIZE BOY'S GOAL

Post Staff Photo.

Like the raven, Frank Kilmartin, 17, still is sitting in his tree house at Fourteenth and Chapin streets. Frank vows he won't descend until he has broken all American and European tree-sitting records.

CAPITAL BOY BEGINS ON SECOND DAY FOR TREE-SITTING PRIZE

Frank Kilmartin, 17, to Risk All in Mighty Effort to Lower Record.

MOTHER BACKING SON AS HE GAINS IN WEIGHT

Sitter, in Interview, States Lofty Perch Adds to Mental Horizon.

Arboritis, a highly contagious hysteria baffling to scientists of Europe and America, has broken out in the national Capital, and an epidemic is feared. Already boys and girls of the Central High School community are showing symptoms of the disease, which sent Frank Kilmartin into a lofty honey locust Wednesday night with the equally high intention of bringing the international tree-sitting record to Washington. The tree is on a lot near Fourteenth and Chapin streets northwest.

The only thing that worries Frank is that school will open in about two months, and he's afraid he will flunk his mid-term exams if he misses too many weeks. "I don't know what the record is, and I don't care," said Frank, who is 17. "I intend to sit in this tree until all international records fall in my lap."

Appetite Shows Improvement.

If Frank continues to eat as he did yesterday, however, his two-by-four platform probably will be the only thing to fall. "Hal" Ludwig, enterprising owner of a Lilliputian golf course at the base of Frank's tree, is the refueler. Measured in terms of calories, he said, Frank has already set a record. Every few minutes he "contacts" with the ground crew by lowering a bucket, and instead of "excelsior," Frank's cry is "pie."

His mother, who lives at 1324 Euclid street, and who heartily indorses her son's bid for fame (and business for "Hal"), believes this tree-sitting business will put some much-needed meat on Frank's bones.

Washington's pioneer among the arboreal sitting sons of rest was interviewed under difficulties yesterday. In the first place Frank's platform is about 40 feet in the air. Then, too, Frank didn't want to stop strumming on his ukelele long enough to talk with groudlings, who apparently interfere with his introspective mental operations.

Phonograph With Him.

However, he did stop his portable phonograph long enough to deliver observations of distinct psychological value. A tree-sitter, it seems, does more thinking than an ordinary citizen. He analyzes his life and ferrets out his shortcomings. He learns to appreciate the loving care of parents, develops pertimacity, and comes down better equipped for the battle with realities.

Girls of the community have expressed a desire to date Frank in the tree, but being flappers mostly, none has so far elected to shinny up the locust. Other girls have begged Mr. Ludwig to fix up a tree perch for them to sit in, just to show the boys that the girls can beat them.

Small crowds gathered about the tree yesterday, but fortunately curtains on the platform saved Frank's publicity shrinking soul from the public gaze, except when he stood up and peered over the side.

He ascended the tree at 10:25 Wednesday night, and he expects to spend at least three more Wednesday nights among the leaves.

CAPITAL YOUTH WINS CIVIC PRIZE AT FORT

George Conn Given Medal by Baltimore Civitans for Citizenship Essay.

BAND WILL BROADCAST

A Washington boy, George Thompson Conn, of 1363 East Capitol street, has won one of the ten medals being awarded at Fort Eustis, Va., during the C. M. T. C. training period for the best essays on citizenship. One embryo soldier from each company was selected to receive the medals, which are awarded by the Civitan Club of Baltimore. Other recipients came from other sections of Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania, all of which are represented at the camp.

Other medals were awarded at Fort Washington, Md., but none of the local boys placed for one of them. It was also announced yesterday that the Fort Washington C. M. T. C. Band would broadcast over WRC at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The 850 Pennsylvania boys now training at the camp will be reviewed at the White House Monday by the President. They will come to Washington by boat, and march to the scene of the review. After the review they will be guests of the Fox Theater. The Fox seems to be playing host to lots of the citizen soldiers, as the Fort Myer contingent will also be entertained after their review by President Hoover early next week.

Fort Eustis announces that some 65 fourth-year men are eligible for reserve commissions, and will receive them if they are recommended by a board of officers. Their training this year has been in the duties of officers.

The Fort Myer group of incipient soldiers continues to indulge in target practice at Camp Sims, in Anacostia. They will work out with rifles, pistols and machine guns, camping out under pup tents the while until the return to Fort Myer tomorrow. They went down to the camp yesterday.

Whalen Arrested; Gives $10,000 Bond

District Warrant Follows Suit Filed by Client of Attorney.

Robert E. J. Whalen, Washington attorney, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging misappropriation of $23,000 of the funds of a client, Miss Annie J. Hurley, of Hyattsville, Md., and immediately posted $10,000 bond for appearance at a hearing before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage on August 7. The warrant was sworn to by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and follows action of a similar nature instituted Wednesday in Prince Georges County, Md., and the filing of a suit for recovery in District Supreme Court on Tuesday.

According to the affidavit supporting the warrant sworn to by Mr. Rover, Mr. Whalen is alleged, while an attorney for a private person, to have unlawfully made away with and secreted with the intent to convert to his own use varying sums, the total of which is approximately $23,000.

The warrant was served by Deputy United States Marshal Gus Ceremile.

The thermometer registered 93 at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, sank to 86 at 3 o'clock, and climbed back to 90 at 6:30. The highest humidity reading of the day was 93 per cent at 6 a. m. At 6:30 p. m. the humidity stood at 70, an unusually high mark for this period of the year, according to Weather Bureau officials.

Parking Demands Topic at Meeting

Session Held to Coordinate Views of U. S. Officials and Business Men.

Time limits for automobile parking in the central district, double parking and the need for more curb space were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the automobile parking committee held in the Navy Department Building for the purpose of coordinating the views of Government officials and business men.

The meeting was occupied chiefly with consideration of a report drafted jointly by Dr. Miller McClintock, of the Erskine Bureau of Traffic Research, and the staff of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. Recommendations of the committee, based on a study of the report, will be transmitted to W. H. Harland, director of traffic in the District.

Single Hobo Attends Rites For Millionaire Benefactor

The ashes of James Eads How, millionaire hobo, who died Tuesday at Staunton, Va., will be sent to St. Louis, Mo., within the next few days for preservation in the family vault at that place.

The body was cremated yesterday at the funeral home of J. William Lee after funeral services at All Souls Unitarian Church. A dozen persons attended the final rites. One of them was a hobo. There were several women present. Professional pallbearers bore the casket to the church and back to the hearse. The Rev. Robert B. Day, of Niagara Falls, N. Y. officiated.

The one hobo present at the funeral represented the International Brotherhood Welfare Association. He distributed copies of the Hobo News in front of the church. An unidentified woman, who said that she had known Mr. How for several years, placed a flower on the casket as the procession left the church.

Mr. How left more than $1,000,000. The millionaire hobo's widow, Ingebord How, will receive a share to be determined by the law. Mr. How had devoted his life to the welfare and education of hoboes, and lived like "the beggars of life" that he loved. He died from pneumonia superinduced by starvation. A period of 30 days of mourning will be observed by the International Itinerant Hoboes of America, it was announced by Jeff Davis, one of the officials of the organization.

Adams Wants Midshipmen Ousted for Girls at Mess

(Associated Press.)

A recommendation for the dismissal of the midshipmen who took two Washington girls into the dormitory and mess hall of the Naval Academy at Annapolis was approved yesterday by Secretary Adams.

In making known he had transmitted the recommendation to President Hoover, both the Secretary and the Navy Department shielded the young men's names, but from other sources it became known the youths were Lawrence L. Myatt, of Quincy, Mass., and Miller S. Burgin, of San Antonio, Tex.

Senators Walsh of Massachusetts, Sheppard of Texas, and Fletcher of Florida, all Democrats, had urged that the Navy deal more leniently with the youths. Burgin's father, the Rev. S. P. C. Burgin, is a presiding Elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and now live at Jacksonville, Fla.

The information transmitted to the Senators was that the two youths had been in the company of the girls when they expressed a desire to dine in the mess hall. They escorted the girls to a dormitory and supplied them with uniforms which they wore into the dining hall.

Learning of the incident, Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson, superintendent of the Naval Academy, recommended the midshipmen be dismissed. The recommendation was approved both by the Bureau of Navigation and the Secretary of the Navy.
